CHS Cagers, Wrestlers Honored at Sports Banquet

By STEVE JONES

A host of Circleville basketball players and wrestling team members were honored Wednesday at the annual Winter Sports Banquet sponsored by the Booster Club and the High School Athletic Assn.

Highlight of the evening came after a fine speech by Otterbein College coach Curt Tong when the Most Valuable Player awards were presented by Booster President William Thornton to Tim Stonerock of the basketball team and Ron Miller of the wrestling squad.

Miller was Central District wrestling champion in the 145-pound class. In addition, he competed in the State AAU meet and finished fifth in the state in the 157 pound class. He was named to the All-Central District wrestling team.

Stonerock was picked to the All-Central District Class AA cage team and was a third-team All-Ohio selection. He was a unanimous pick on the All-South Central Ohio League cage team, making it the second consecutive year he has earned loop honors.

ALSO SINGLED out for special recognition was Mike Merriman, Circleville's lone representative in the state scholastic swim championships.

Merriman, who drove to Columbus after school many nights during the winter to practice with the Ohio State University swim squad, was second in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events in the Central District and was third in the state meet in the 50-yard freestyle.

His faculty adviser, Brent Bell, told the assembly present at the banquet that if Merriman had had a qualified swim coach, more competition and a place to practice he would have been the best swimmer in the state.

Other special honors dished out included presentation of the Stouge Club trophies to all-league players Dan Speakman and Stonerock. Speakman was also named honorary captain of this year's team by a vote of his teammates. Both Speakman and Stonerock were picked by the

Major Rail Strike Nears

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Railroads over most of the nation are threatened with a strike of train operating employees this weekend in a dispute over health and welfare benefits. The carriers say they will go to court to prevent a walk-out.

A strike deadline of 12:01 a.m. Saturday was set by the Order of Railroad Conductors and Brakemen, accepting about 18,500 members and 60 to 70 railroads.

Clyde F. Lane, union president, said the carriers plan to cancel their agreement with the union on hospital, medical and insurance benefits Saturday in violation of the Railroad Labor Act.

He said that unless the benefits are continued the conductors and brakemen will quit work on all railroads except a few which have their own health and hospital plans with the union.

Roundtown

A CLERK at Bob's Hardware in Ashville received the scare of his life this morning. Harold Hartley opened the store around 8 a. m. for business.

As he walked through the building he saw a pair of feminine looking legs protruding from under a counter. He rushed outside to summon help for the damsel in apparent distress.

Ashville Marshal Glen Clay and Warren Bastian came to his rescue. The legs turned out to be the bottom half of a female manikin that some prankster had strategically placed in the store. One observer said Marshal Clay was wearing a broad smile when he entered the store.

Picketing Continues At Scattered Dairies in State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Farmers Organization continued picketing dairies at scattered points throughout Ohio Thursday, but there was no immediate reaction from Ohio NFO leaders on the government's civil anti-trust suit against the organization.

Ohio was listed among 19 states named in the suit filed in U.S. District Court in Des Moines, Iowa, charging the NFO with using coercion in attempting to monopolize the interstate sale of milk in the states.

The suit did not attack NFO's withholding of its members' own milk supplies, but says through acts of violence and threats, the NFO has forced non-member farmers, carriers and processors to join its campaign to keep milk off the market.

There have been a number of acts of vandalism in Ohio in connection with the withholding action, but in each case NFO officials disclaimed any responsibility, saying its members had been cautioned not to do anything illegal.

Plenty of milk still was available since the majority of Ohio dairymen, not members of the NFO, have been moving normal supplies to markets.

In Cincinnati, the Ohio Department of Agriculture sealed shipment of 5,000 pounds of "old milk" delivered to the Cedar Hill Farms Dairy. An affidavit filed with the department quoted witnesses as saying the milk was from the New Vienna, Ohio, area and was 6-8 days old. Dairy spokesmen said they knew the milk was old and had no intention of accepting it.

Cincinnati health inspectors were carrying out stepped up inspection of milk shipped into the city.

NFO Accuses LBJ as Foe Of Bargaining

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Farmers Organization, faced with a federal anti-trust suit, has accused the Johnson administration of trying to stop farmers from bargaining for fair prices for their products.

The Justice Department filed a civil suit Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Des Moines, Iowa, charging the NFO with using coercion in attempting to monopolize the interstate sale of milk in 19 states.

Judge Roy L. Stephenson said he would hear arguments today on the possibility of issuing a restraining order against the NFO, which since March 15 has sought to withhold milk from market in the hope of forcing the price paid to farmers up by 2 cents a quart. Most farmers now receive 8 to 10 cents a quart.

While federal suit did not challenge the milk withholding by NFO members, it did accuse the farm group of forcing non-member farmers, truckers and processors to cooperate with them.

The court action seeks an order forbidding the NFO from trying to monopolize the sale of milk by illegal means and from threatening non-NFO members.

The response from NFO President Oren Lee Staley was an attack on the Johnson administration for what Staley called a campaign to deny farmers the right to bargain for fair prices.

He added that his group has no intention of ceasing its milk withholding, but would obey a court order.

Wage-Hour Law Delay Granted

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A three-judge federal court said today it would extend a temporary restraining order prohibiting the federal government from enforcing some provisions of the wage and hour law until a decision is rendered on their constitutionality.

The court, asked to limit federal power over states, took the case under advisement Wednesday.

War Deaths Reaching New Heights

SAIGON (AP) — More American and Communist troops were killed last week than ever before in the Vietnam war, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

The United States lost 274 dead and the Communists 2,774, the American command said.

While the Communist death toll set a record for the second straight week, the U.S. total exceeded a record of 240 that had stood since the battle of the Ira Drang Valley in November 1965.

Although the ground war has been relatively quiet for the past few days, the casualty summary for last week emphasized the growing intensity of the struggle in Vietnam. Many of the casualties were suffered in one of the war's deadliest one-day battles, on March 21, in which a crack Viet Cong regiment lost more than 600 dead in the jungles of Tay Ninh Province.

The deadly pace of the war continued Wednesday with 50 Viet Cong reported killed by South Korean soldiers sweeping the central coast and scattered actions dotting the countryside.

U.S. pilots smashed at targets in North Vietnam with 108 missions, including strikes on a storage complex 27 miles northeast of Hanoi. In the south, rockets from a U.S. Army helicopter on a firing mission fell short, killed three civilians, wounded 20 others and destroyed 31 huts in a government-controlled village 35 miles southeast of Quang Ngai.

The weekly casualty summary reported 1,320 Americans were wounded last week, the third highest total of the war, and 12 were missing.

The casualty figures also reflect the increasing use by the Communists of mortars, rockets and recoilless rifles — relatively long-range weapons which they now generally favor in an attempt to escape the massive and growing U.S. firepower. U.S. officers say the Communists have apparently decided to wage a war of attrition for the time being.

Despite record losses for two weeks, the U.S. estimate of total Communist troop strength increased by 1,000 men last week and 4,000 the week before, to a total of 287,000. This indicated continued heavy infiltration from North Vietnam despite the U.S. bombing and successful local recruiting of guerrillas.

American troop strength dropped for the first time in the war, being reported at 425,000.

This was 2,000 less than the total force reported the week before, but the U.S. command said it was the result of an "administrative shuffle" and had no significance.

Apparently there was no real appreciable drop in troop strength.

Federal Reserve Chairman Martin Is Reappointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic critics of William McChesney Martin Jr., Federal Reserve Board chairman, said today they hope his continuance in office will not bring tighter money later this year.

President Johnson announced Wednesday he was designating Martin, 60, to stay on as chairman until Jan. 30, 1970.

Martin's Democratic opponents on Capitol Hill resigned themselves some time ago to this action.

They said Johnson apparently felt he had no choice in view of Martin's wide reputation as a "sound money man" among U.S. and foreign bankers.

Martin's international standing is particularly important because of the continuing U.S. balance of payments difficulties, these sources said.

GOP Is Elated By Florida Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans here are celebrating a major political breakthrough in Florida's special legislative election, but their elation is tempered by apparent failure to pick up a House seat in Rhode Island.

The Rhode Island contest remained in doubt with Democrat Robert O. Tiernan clinging to a 370-vote margin over Republican James DiPrete Jr. for the seat of the late Rep. John E. Fogarty. Nearly 1,900 absentee ballots are to be counted Friday.

Sources in both parties expressed doubt DiPrete could overcome Tiernan's lead, unless substantial counting errors have been made. "It's definitely uphill," commented one GOP spokesman.

But in Florida, Republicans scored a major victory. Although falling short of a majority, they picked up enough seats to prevent Democrats from overriding votes by GOP Gov. Claude Kirk and gained their strongest foothold in any Deep South legislature.

Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss said the GOP "has established a solid beachhead for an even greater Republican victory in 1968" and Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., said the result "clearly shows the people's disapproval of the LBJ high society."

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said the results "imply that our two-party system will be put to work in Florida."

Democratic officials here were pleased with the Rhode Island results. Even though Fogarty had held the seat for 26 years, the district is fairly evenly divided politically and gave 2-1 support last November to GOP Gov. John H. Chafee.

The Florida results constituted a ringing endorsement of Kirk, who campaigned hard for

Ohio U Phase Of CEO Plans 4 Seminars

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Center for Economic Opportunity, an Ohio University phase of the effort to hoist Appalachia by its bootstraps to prosperity, has announced four seminars planned in the next few months.

The center, founded 13 months ago to involve and train businessmen, civic and industrial executives in the war on Appalachian poverty, now is ready to move from the studies phase toward action, according to its director.

He is Samuel C. Sharp, an occasional lecturer at Ohio University. He reported Wednesday night federal extension of up to $322,000 for various phases of CEO programs in 28 Ohio Appalachian counties this fiscal year.

This would mean more than double CEC spending to date. The first seminar will be held April 2-3.

Sharp also reported approval of Neighborhood Youth Corps programs, begun last February, in four southeast Ohio counties to be extended through 153 youths age 16-21 in High-land, Ross, Scioto and Morgan Counties.

NYC Printers' Strike Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of an immediate strike by the Printers Union against five of the city's major newspapers at midnight tonight appears to have eased.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Typographical Union No. 6, said Wednesday that his union did not plan to strike tonight even if no agreement has been reached by midnight when the current contract expires.

Republican candidates in the special election forced by a federal court reapportionment order.

Republicans gained 9 Senate seats for a total of 20 in a 48-member body and picked up 14 House seats for 40 of 119.

Cramer and Rep. J. Herbert Burke, R-Fla., saw the results as a major step toward two-party government in Florida, while Democratic Rep. Don Fuqua said Democratic primary splits may have played a part.

The results also were interpreted as strengthening the belief Republicans will make a major challenge next year for the Senate seat now held by George Smathers, who says he plans to retire because of ill health.

LAND'S END, England (AP) — Royal Air Force planes attacked with high explosive bombs and napalm again today at the harried wreck of the Torrey Canyon, trying to destroy what was left of her oil cargo before it joins giant slicks already polluting most Cornwall beaches.

Eight Sea Vixens and eight Buccaneers jetted over the target, the Seven Stones Reef nine miles off Land's End, with one aim in mind—the remaining tanks of the 16-tank ship which was carrying 35 million gallons of oil from Kuwait to Britain when she hit the reef 12 days ago.

Only a part of the 61,000-ton tanker remained above the waves. The assignment was not to sink the Torrey Canyon but to disperse her cargo, set it afire and minimize as far as possible the oil drift toward the golden sands of Cornwall, now in places turning sludge black.

One huge oil slick, from the cargo of 35.8 million gallons which has been escaping from the tanker since she hit the reef 12 days ago, was reported moving along the English Channel 20 miles south of Plymouth.

But local authorities in shore resorts already invaded by the oil said they believed most of it could be removed before the summer vacation season starts in July.

The navy planned to use booms — some more than a mile long — in an attempt to prevent the oil reaching more resorts and ports along the Channel coast.

Work was starting on a boom across the 1½-mile Needles Channel between the Isle of Wight and Hampshire. Ships will lay buoys across the Channel and a two-foot-deep net of polystyrene will hang between each buoy.

9 Girls Die After Fuel Sprays Rooms

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A cartwheeling Delta Air Lines DC8 jet exploded into the rear of a luxury motel opposite New Orleans International Airport early today, killing 19 persons including 10 high school students from Juda, Wis.

The big jet was on a training flight. It carried five pilots and a federal inspector. All died in the flaming crash at the Hilton Inn.

The students were on a senior class outing, part of a group of 32 from Julia High School who had been at the motel since Monday and were scheduled to leave today.

The bodies of eight girls were found huddled together in charred bathrooms of the motel. They had turned on the showers in a futile attempt to escape the holocaust. The body of a ninth girl was blown out of the motel.

The body of a boy student was found outside the building.

The jet fell as it was banking sharply to return to the landing strip. It struck two houses, peeled off the top of a truck and began cartwheeling, spewing fuel and blistering the area.

It blew apart when it smashed into a rear corner of the rectangular shaped multimillion-dollar motel. Wreckage was scattered for a hundred yards. The nose of the craft was imbedded in the structure.

The motel erupted in fierce flames after the jet struck. Numerous rooms were destroyed or damaged. At least 10 persons were treated for injuries at a New Orleans hospital.

The surviving students, many hysterical or in a daze, were placed under sedation by doctors. Some wore berruda shorts, others were dressed in blankets. Tour leaders were busy informing relatives in

One Plane Victim Associated with Garrison Probe

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — George Piazza II, one of the Delta Air Lines pilots killed early today in the crash of a DC8 jet, was an attorney for one of the figures in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe.

Piazza, 30, who combined the careers of pilot and attorney, was counsel for James Lewallen, a onetime roommate of David W. Ferrie, Garrison claims Ferrie, who died Feb. 22, was one of the group which conspired here to kill Kennedy.

Lewallen, who has been questioned by Garrison's staff, is also a pilot, as was Ferrie.

The big jet was on a training flight. It carried five pilots and a federal inspector. All died in the flaming crash at the Hilton Inn.

The students were on a senior class outing, part of a group of 32 from Julia High School who had been at the motel since Monday and were scheduled to leave today.

The bodies of eight girls were found huddled together in charred bathrooms of the motel. They had turned on the showers in a futile attempt to escape the holocaust. The body of a ninth girl was blown out of the motel.

The body of a boy student was found outside the building.

The jet fell as it was banking sharply to return to the landing strip. It struck two houses, peeled off the top of a truck and began cartwheeling, spewing fuel and blistering the area.

It blew apart when it smashed into a rear corner of the rectangular shaped multimillion-dollar motel. Wreckage was scattered for a hundred yards. The nose of the craft was imbedded in the structure.

The motel erupted in fierce flames after the jet struck. Numerous rooms were destroyed or damaged. At least 10 persons were treated for injuries at a New Orleans hospital.

The surviving students, many hysterical or in a daze, were placed under sedation by doctors. Some wore Bermuda shorts, others were dressed in blankets. Tour leaders were busy informing relatives in

One Plane Victim Associated with Garrison Probe

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — George Piazza II, one of the Delta Air Lines pilots killed early today in the crash of a DC8 jet, was an attorney for one of the figures in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe.

Piazza, 30, who combined the careers of pilot and attorney, was counsel for James Lewallen, a onetime roommate of David W. Ferrie, Garrison claims Ferrie, who died Feb. 22, was one of the group which conspired here to kill Kennedy.

Lewallen, who has been questioned by Garrison's staff, is also a pilot, as was Ferrie.

Kindergarten Registration Scheduled in City April 5

Kindergarten registration for the city school system's fall term will be conducted April 5.

The registration will be conducted in city elementary schools from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. School Superintendent Fritz Jacobs has urged that all eligible children who plan to attend kindergarten classes be registered. He said pupils living outside the city school district will not be accepted.

Elementary schools will be used as registration headquarters.

Antipoverty Funds Vanish From Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — A city report said today that hundreds of thousands of dollars had vanished and could not be traced in the nation's largest antipoverty program, a two-year, $13.4-million effort in Harlem.

The report was issued without comment today by New York City's top fiscal officer, Comptroller Mario A. Proccacino. It covers operations of HARYOU-Act, the Harlem antipoverty agency, from July 1, 1964, through June 30, 1966.

Some highlights of the report: Haryou-Act still owes commercial creditors at least $600,000 but finished the period with less than $39,000 in unspent cash.

More than $700,000 went for "miscellaneous and unclassified" expenses, much of this difficult to trace.

Equipment purchased for the controversial Black Arts Theater, which preached a hate-white theme to youth in the streets, has not been recovered. The cash value could not be determined. This entire program was carried out despite failure to get federal approval.

Juda, a village of 300 persons in Wisconsin's dairy country of the tragedy.

Police Capt. Marvin Leonard said the plane "spewed a sea of fuel right to those rooms where those eight kids were staying. That's what killed them. Not the impact from the wreckage.

"There were eight girls in four rooms. You could see where they took refuge in the shower stalls. One girl even took her purse with her.

"They turned on the water, but it didn't do them any good." The crash also killed a maintenance man at the motel and a mother and child living near the motel.

Most guests fled the fiery scene in panic, many in their nightclothes. Some charred rooms were inaccessible for hours because of the heat.

"We saw a real bright light," said Doug Baer, 16, of Park Forest, Ill. "I opened the door and saw all those flames. We just ran. There was a series of explosions and breaking glass. The girls were hysterical, screaming and some throwing up."

The plane — the oldest DC8 in use by the airline — had been airborne only nine minutes before the crash occurred. It had arrived shortly before with passengers from Chicago. The night was balmy with a nearly full moon.

"It sounded like a giant whoof," said one witness. "The plane was covered in flames like a ball of fire."

The jet smashed two houses before striking the motel. Wreckage of the plane was scattered in small pieces over a wide area. The largest single part visible was an engine cowl resting on the railroad track.

As the jet careened toward the motel, it split a wooden frame house, demolished another home across the street, hit a railroad track, skidded 100 yards and plowed into the motel.

The charred, decapitated body of a small boy was found in the remains of one home. A woman's body was nearby.

"I saw several bodies on fire in a field," said Jim Millet, an off duty policeman who reached the scene minutes after the fiery crash at approximately 2 a.m. EST. "I heard screams coming from the Hilton Inn, and started leading people out."

Some of the guests were in their underwear with soaked towels around their heads, he said.

Boston Gives Mod Version Of Igor Stravinsky Opera

BOSTON (AP) — The Opera Company of Boston went mod about Igor Stravinsky Wednesday night, staging his only full-length opera, "The Rake's Progress," in swinging 1967 terms.

Costumes were mod (miniskirts and vinyl) and rocker (motorcycle jackets); lighting was psychedelic; dances were staged by the darling of the discotheque, Killer Joe Piro; and act two was all camped up.

Half the person — the half with the beard — wears men's clothes. The other half wears an earring and a dress. The singer is counter tenor John Ferrante.

Market Shows Little Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed little trend early this afternoon. Trading slackened.

Gainers outnumbered losers but the popular averages declined due to weakness in some of their component blue chips. Analysts saw the list as going through another corrective session in which recent gains were being consolidated.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 322.8 with industrials off 1.8, rails up .3 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.56 at 869.54.

French Fryer Blaze Damages L-K Restaurant

A french fryer ignited at the L-K Restaurant south of Circleville at 11:40 a. m. today, causing heavy damage to the kitchen area.

The Circleville Fire Department called to the scene, quickly had the blaze under control. Firemen said cooking oil in one of the french fryers caught fire and spread to a second french fryer. The walls, ceiling and equipment in the kitchen were all damaged by the blaze they said.

An estimate of the cost of repairing the damage has not yet been made.

Robert Sindelar, manager of the Restaurant, told Deputy Sheriff Charles Jones that the main dining room would be closed for a few days while repairs were being made. The banquet facility will continue to operate, he said.

A regular Thursday noon meeting of the Rotary Club at the restaurant was cancelled.

Students Say Priesthood No Longer Is Attractive

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — "Sorry father, that is not for me."

So goes the general reaction which the Rev. Robert E. McNally says he finds among college undergraduates these days in discussing with them the possibility of entering the Roman Catholic priesthood.

They don't see the value of lifetime commitment to it, he said, and the attitude shows up in the sharply decreasing number of candidates for clerical orders.

Father McNally, of Fordham University in New York, said that not only is the ratio of religious vocations to Catholic priests "but is falling below normal and average."

"This decay is nationwide," he told the convention of the National Catholic Educational Association. "Before the century is over the Catholic Church in North America will find herself in the same disastrous situation as her sister church in South America."

There, the severe shortage of priests has become a major handicap, and Father McNally said the "current crisis" of clerical vocations in this country pointed toward a similar condition.

Catholic schools also are in serious trouble both financially and in Catholic attitudes toward them, said the Most Rev. John B. McDowell, auxiliary bishop of Pittsburgh.

If "nonpublic schools are to survive," he said, they must share federal and state education funds.

Generally, throughout the Catholic educational system, he said, "the picture is dismal." "Many today question the validity and the prudence of our program and many wonder whether it has been worth all the sacrifice and money, the suffering and dedication," the bishop said.

He said few dioceses have been able to secure an adequate number of teachers — nuns or laymen.

Four Area Men Are Inducted

Four men were inducted into the U. S. Army Wednesday at Ft. Hayes, Columbus.

Ernest Evans of 720 1/2 S. Court St. and Marvin L. Wilson of Route 1, Stoutsville, volunteered for the draft. Other inductees were Daniel M. Brown of Washington C. H. and Jerry E. Starkey, 108 Margaret Ave.

The Pickaway County Red Cross served doughnuts and coffee prior to the men's departure.

Boston Gives Mod Version Of Igor Stravinsky Opera

BOSTON (AP) — The Opera Company of Boston went mod about Igor Stravinsky Wednesday night, staging his only full-length opera, "The Rake's Progress," in swinging 1967 terms.

Half the person — the half with the beard — wears men's clothes. The other half wears an earring and a dress. The singer is counter tenor John Ferrante.

Costumes were entirely in black and white and settings were in gray, with crosshatching, reminiscent of the Hogarth etchings which inspired the opera.

A contraption for making stones into bread-Tom Rakewell's downfall — looked like a giant zebra-decorated frozen custard machine. If the machine's revolving disks or the constant barrage of expanding-contracting, shifting, overlapping colors hadn't made a viewer dizzy, the epilogue might. After the final moments of the opera, a mod mad scene complete with padded motorcycle, the chorus got out of their beds in bedlam and sang the moral — "The devil finds work for idle hands" — while popping giant flashbulbs in the faces of the audience.

The opera was conducted by Robert Craft, Stravinsky's right-hand man for many years. The music was not lost behind its hopped-up presentation, but a couple of singers were not able to make their words heard.

Market Shows Little Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed little trend early this afternoon. Trading slackened.

Gainers outnumbered losers but the popular averages declined due to weakness in some of their component blue chips.

Analysts saw the list as going through another corrective session in which recent gains were being consolidated.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 322.8 with industrials off 1.8, rails up .3 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.36 at 869.54.

Students Say Priesthood No Longer Is Attractive

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — "Sorry father, that is not for me."

So goes the general reaction which the Rev. Robert E. McNally says he finds among college undergraduates these days in discussing with them the possibility of entering the Roman Catholic priesthood.

They don't see the value of lifetime commitment to it, he said, and the attitude shows up in the sharply decreasing number of candidates for clerical orders.

Father McNally, of Fordham University in New York, said that not only is the ratio of religious vocations to Catholic priests "but is falling below normal and average."

"This decay is nationwide," he told the convention of the National Catholic Educational Association. "Before the century is over the Catholic Church in North America will find herself in the same disastrous situation as her sister church in South America."

There, the severe shortage of priests has become a major handicap, and Father McNally said the "current crisis" of clerical vocations in this country pointed toward a similar condition.

Catholic schools also are in serious trouble both financially and in Catholic attitudes toward them, said the Most Rev. John B. McDowell, auxiliary bishop of Pittsburgh.

If "nonpublic schools are to survive," he said, they must share federal and state education funds.

Generally, throughout the Catholic educational system, he said, "the picture is dismal."

"Many today question the validity and the prudence of our program and many wonder whether it has been worth all the sacrifice and money, the suffering and dedication," the bishop said.

He said few dioceses have been able to secure an adequate number of teachers — nuns or laymen.

Four Area Men Are Inducted

Four men were inducted into the U. S. Army Wednesday at Ft. Hayes, Columbus.

Ernest Evans of 729 1/2 S. Court St. and Marvin L. Wilson of Route 1, Stoutsville, volunteered for the draft. Other inductees were Daniel M. Brown of Washington C. H. and Jerry E. Starkey, 108 Margaret Ave.

The Pickaway County Red Cross served doughnuts and coffee prior to the men's departure.

Board Okays Bid To Buy Closed School

A bid of $5,000, offered by Clarence Happeney Jr. for purchase of the now-closed Walnut St. Elementary School, has been accepted by the Circleville Board of Education.

The six-classroom structure, closed at the end of last school year, was listed for sale earlier this year. Happeney submitted his bid during a public auction conducted at the Court-house this month.

Happeney lives at Route 4. He was not available today for comments on his future plans for the building.

The facility was closed last year as the result of a school building program that provided new elementary schools and additions to newer model structures here.

Students who formerly attended the school have been assigned to other buildings in the area, mainly at S. Court St. Elementary.

Reagen Follows Rhodes In Austerity Program

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan is pinning his hopes on an Ohio-type austerity program to fatten California's depleted Treasury.

The Ohioans have told him how it worked for them, but so far the new Republican governor of the nation's largest state is getting a much chillier reception in this capital city than Ohio's Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes in Columbus.

Reagan launched his administration in January with a pledge to "squeeze, cut and trim" spiraling costs of state government. He charged that the Democrats under Gov. Edmund G. Brown had left California wallowing $500 million in red ink.

The big question for Reagan, holding his first public office, was just how and where to squeeze, cut and trim.

In his first month in office he brought out Ohio Finance Director Richard Krabach to tell how Ohio did it.

Faced by a similar situation four years ago, Rhodes shocked Ohio with a severe economy program. Rhodes fired 5,000 provisional employees hired by the previous Democratic administration. He cut spending nearly 10 per cent.

He called for increased tuition at state colleges. He asked state employees to work on Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays. He elisted the help of private enterprise in streamlining state government at a yearly saving of $50 million.

The Ohio governor thus gained national attention by balancing the budget and still keeping his pledge against new taxes. Rhodes won easy re-election last November.

Philip M. Battaglia, Reagan's top assistant, said a new administration would be foolish not to profit from experiences elsewhere. In an interview, Battaglia said he and Reagan shopped widely for ideas right after the election and found that, "it appeared the government with a number of problems that made a great similarity was Ohio."

On other Rhodes-like points, Reagan has encountered considerably less enthusiasm among Californians accustomed to state services. As Ohio, Reagan has ordered elimination of 5,000 state jobs over the next 15 months and has froze new hiring except for the most essential work.

He has called for tuition for the first time at the state's 28 universities and colleges. He has ordered a 10 per cent average cut in state spending. He has asked 166,000 state employees to work voluntarily on Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays.

Resistance has forced him to compromise in some areas. He has postponed tuition for at least the coming school year. He has acknowledged that the budget cuts have fallen short of the 10 per cent goal. He met almost universal rejection of the holiday work request.

Reagan nevertheless has reiterated his economy goals, and Battaglia says, "I think the people are with us in what we're trying to do."

Both Rhodes and Reagan are expected to head favorite son delegations to the 1968 Republican Convention.

Ohio's success in attracting new business is due to the fact that "they got their house in shape financially," Battaglia said.

Despite similarities, sources close to the two governors doubt that they are likely to form any tight political bond. Rhodes is a professional politician who came up through the ranks and respects those who have done the same. Columbus insiders say he has kept his lines of communication open to all Republican factions. Rhodes was especially careful not to alienate anyone during the 1964 Presidential race.

Reagan, an actor who had never run for office, was an ardent advocate of Sen. Barry Goldwater from the start. Having hit the jackpot on his own first bid for election, Reagan says the candidate he will support for the 1968 Presidential nomination should conform with his own conservative philosophy.

gangster of movies, still dapper at 71, was discussing the latest blow in a decade of personal trouble. For a year he had been front-man and greeter for George Raft's Colony sporting club, a Las Vegas-type casino in London, where gambling is legal.

During a trip home, Raft was notified that he was one of eight Americans whose "continued presence in the United Kingdom would not be conducive to the public good."

A month later, Raft is still shocked.

"What have I done?" he asks as he chain smokes — despite an asthmatic condition — in his comfortable Beverly Hills home.

"They haven't accused me of anything; they've just barred me from the country without charges, without a trial or anything. And just when I was about to start participating in the profits of the Colony. All I got was an apartment, the use of a car and a small salary until the investors were paid off. Now they have been, but I won't be there to collect."

"I suppose the British had some information on me, and it must have come from the FBI. I'm going to New York this week to see about a job, and I plan to drop down to Washington and wait in Hoover's office until he sees me. I know him; once I introduced him to Aly Khan at Del Mar race track."

"Hell, I'm not a member of any mob, never was. Sure, I know some guys that are, but I know a lot of people. What am I supposed to do when those guys say hello to me — tell them to get lost?"

Raft, who was married briefly in 1923 to Grayce Mulrooney and never divorced, claims to have spent a million dollars on "broad." Such extravagances and a fading career as a film tough guy led to his financial troubles. In 1965 he was fined $2,500 after pleading guilty to tax evasion.

"My luck started turning sour in 1957," he said. Since then he has suffered a series of personal and financial disasters in Cuba, Las Vegas, London and elsewhere.

gangster of movies, still dapper at 71, was discussing the latest blow in a decade of personal trouble. For a year he had been front-man and greeter for George Raft's Colony sporting club, a Las Vegas-type casino in London, where gambling is legal.

During a trip home, Raft was notified that he was one of eight Americans whose "continued presence in the United Kingdom would not be conducive to the public good."

A month later, Raft is still shocked.

"What have I done?" he asks as he chain smokes — despite an asthmatic condition — in his comfortable Beverly Hills home.

"They haven't accused me of anything; they've just barred me from the country without charges, without a trial or anything. And just when I was about to start participating in the profits of the Colony. All I got was an apartment, the use of a car and a small salary until the investors were paid off. Now they have been, but I won't be there to collect."

"I suppose the British had some information on me, and it must have come from the FBI. I'm going to New York this week to see about a job, and I plan to drop down to Washington and wait in Hoover's office until he sees me. I know him; once I introduced him to Aly Khan at Del Mar race track.

"Hell, I'm not a member of any mob, never was. Sure, I know some guys that are, but I know a lot of people. What am I supposed to do when those guys say hello to me — tell them to get lost?"

Raft, who was married briefly in 1923 to Grayce Mulrooney and never divorced, claims to have spent a million dollars on "broads." Such extravagances and a fading career as a film tough guy led to his financial troubles. In 1965 he was fined $2,500 after pleading guilty to tax evasion.

"My luck started turning sour in 1957," he said. Since then he has suffered a series of personal and financial disasters in Cuba, Las Vegas, London and elsewhere.

Some Elegant Phobias

NEW YORK (AP) — The world is going so well for many in these prosperous times that they are afraid they won't have anything left to worry about.

This is an idle fear. There is always something to be afraid of. In all his long history man has never run out of panic buttons to push.

If you are bored with your old fears, there are plenty of new ones to be had merely by looking around you and picking something else to dread.

Here, for example, is a handy guide that might help add zest to your fretting:

Are you tired of being a bachelor or bachelorette? You are suffering from monophobia, the fear of being alone. On the other hand, if you dread marriage, what you have is merinthophobia, the fear of being tied up.

If you feel you're in a rut and hate your job, chances are you've got both taphephobia, fear of being alone. On the other ergasiophobia, the fear of work. And if the boss has been bawling you out for loafing, undoubtedly you also have onomatophobia, the fear of hearing certain words.

And, of course, when anybody sneezed in a crowded bus, the rest of his fellow travelers immediately became restless from aerophobia, the fear of air currents, and molysmophobia, the fear of contamination.

Since it is almost impossible to watch television very long without seeing a deodorant commercial, there probably isn't anybody over 10 years of age in America who isn't a victim of bromhidrosiphobia, the fear of body odors.

Do you find it impossible to cope with modern teen-agers?

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — The drop in interest rates grows broader and, as the year wears on, will become noticeable in lower charges for small loans.

The latest activity is the final acceptance in the banking community of a 5 1/2 per cent prime interest rate after a two-month tug of war. Banks that held out for a higher rate have, reluctantly, succumbed.

The pressure for lower rates is coming from several directions: as the avowed policy of the Johnson administration, as the obvious policy of the Federal Reserve, as a dictate of the slowing business expansion.

For a while some analysts believed that the balance of payments problem would keep domestic interest rates from sinking. Higher rates in Europe, they said, would drain dollars abroad.

Now rates are falling also in several foreign nations, and the United States, Britain, Italy, West Germany and France are pledged to work for easier borrowing costs. This threat to the balance of payments is lessening.

The greatest resistance to lower rates came from some commercial bankers.

Ordinarily when a rate is reduced by a large bank, as it was Jan. 26 by the Chase Manhattan, other banks quickly fall into line. A consensus did not develop this time. Instead, a heated dispute arose.

The split in rates amounted to only 3/4 per cent, the difference between 5 1/2 per cent that most banks held to until this week and 5 1/4 per cent, the rate fixed by Chase for its most credit-worthy customers.

Small as this difference seemed to be it represented a basic dispute about the economy. Most banks felt the demand for loans dictated a 5 1/2 per cent or a 6 per cent interest charge. Chastizing of Chase became commonplace. Whereas in most disputes bankers assume an icy but restrained disdain for opponents, the scorn here was heated and unreserved.

The main charge was that demand for loans did not call for a lowering of rates. Chase's move was premature, bankers said. It was politics, some others said—an attempt to court favor with the Johnson administration.

Gradually, however, the arguments against lowering the rate began to unravel. Business conditions continued to slow and the Fed pursued its easier money policy. More and more banks fell to 5 1/4 per cent.

Last week Morgan Guaranty Trust dropped to the Chase level followed quickly by the Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank. There was no question now: 5 1/2 per cent would prevail.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have an allergy and sneeze a great many times during the day. When my nose gets stuffed I put some nose drops in and can breathe well for an hour. Without the drops I am miserable. How long can I continue to use them safely?

Mrs. K.R.T., Indiana

Dear Mrs. T.: People with allergy of the nose complain that they cannot breathe well, that their nose runs a clear liquid and that they sneeze often. The lining of the nose during an attack becomes swollen and further interferes with breathing.

You apparently have fallen into the trap of "over medication" by using too much of the nose drops, too frequently. Technically, this is called "rebound", which means that the tissue of the nose after it is shrunk with drops bounces back and becomes even more congested.

This habit and dependence on the nose drops must be stopped if your nose is to return to normal and again function well. In many cases this is not easy because you will be so uncomfortable for the first few days.

Doctors who treat this condition often have found that small doses of cortisone used under their direction may be helpful as a temporary substitute while the "nose drop habit" is being broken. It takes only a few days of real effort but you will be markedly more comfortable afterwards.

Then, I would advise you to seek treatment for your allergy. Sometimes all that is necessary is an anti-allergy drug which can bring relief. If the condition is very distressing it may be necessary to do skin tests in an effort to uncover the basic cause for your allergy.

I have been told that I have glaucoma and that my pressure is "eleven." What is the normal pressure in the eye and is mine dangerous?

G.B.H., New York

Dear Mr. H.: Numbers are always confusing to patients and, at best, can have no meaning to them. It would do you a great injustice to give you another number that would only cause you more anxiety.

You have been told that you have glaucoma after having been tested with the delicate instrument called the tonometer.

At that time you most certainly should have asked your doctor whether your condition was mild or severe. I am certain that your eye doctor did not give you a "number" and stop there without giving you assurance about your condition.

The seriousness of glaucoma does not depend on a number alone. When once you were told that you have this condition, treatment was undoubtedly started to keep the disorder under control.

The early recognition of glaucoma is so important that hospitals, clinics and private physicians are now on an active campaign to have everyone above the age of 40 tested.

This takes a few moments and records the normal or the abnormal pressure within the eyeball. When glaucoma is found it can be kept from progressing in most cases.

By John Cunniff

It was now First National City Bank's move and all bankers knew it. First City is Chase's main New York rival. It alternates with Chase as the nation's second or third largest bank. And it was one of the sources of resistance to a lower rate.

After holding out for two months, First City didn't rush to get in line. Good Friday offered a respite. And the weekend permitted two more days of inactivity.

On Monday morning First City finally dropped its rate and most of the remaining bank that had politely withheld their moves now fell into line.

In dropping the prime rate to 5 1/2 per cent some bankers still insist that Chase's move was premature. In the narrowest sense perhaps it was. In a broader sense it was a stunning victory.

Lack of Consistency

If anything were needed to clinch the proof that America's liberals are no longer liberal, their lack of response when our State Department failed to offer immediate asylum to the defecting Svetlana Stalin, daughter of bloody old "Uncle Joe," is enough to do it.

True enough, in view of Josef Stalin's crimes, Svetlana's appeal for sanctuary was nothing to stir the spontaneous Don Quixote impulses in anyone. But the liberals of a generation ago would have observed that to hold children responsible for the barbarities of their parents is repugnant to a free people who long ago did away with bills of attainder and the idea that there could be a legal "corruption of the blood." Svetlana Stalin, as Representative Paul Findley of Illinois points out, is neither a criminal nor a political trouble maker, and to equivocate about giving her asylum merely to curry favor with the present rulers of Soviet Russia makes us look not only pusillanimous but silly. After all, we offered Juanita Castro, the sister of Cuba's monster, a haven, so where is our consistency?

The failure of liberals to react makes a lugubrious contrast to thirty years ago, when it became known that Leon Trotsky was seeking a New World asylum from the cold wrath of Svetlana Stalin's father. Trotsky never did get a refuge in side the United States, but it was not because the liberals who believed in the right of political asylum let him down. New York, in the mid - Thirties, was boiling with petitions and committees for Trotsky, and everybody in liberalism who was anybody was busy choosing sides. The issue quickly separated the sheep from the goats, for those "liberals" who chose to take the Stalinist side in the battle proved they were no friends of the Bill of Rights and its natural extension in the Right of Asylum.

Eventually Trotsky was stowed away in Mexico in a refuge that turned out to be anything but safe. A distinguished group of U.S. liberals, headed by philosopher John Dewey, journeyed to Mexico City to take testimony which Trotsky hoped would show that Stalin had railroaded him on trumped up charges of treason. The Dewey report absolved Trotsky, but this meant nothing, of course, in Moscow. It did not save Trotsky from being hacked to death with an alpenstock in a Mexico City suburb by a Stalinist murder emissary.

In a way, Svetlana Stalin is the seeming victim of a grisly historical poetic justice. Her father was contemptuous of the liberals who went out on a limb to gain sanctuary for his great adversary Trotsky in the Nineteen Thirties. And now there are no liberals to speak up for the daughter.

But the daughter is not the father. She has never killed anybody. Not much is known about Svetlana's opinions, but she was quoted in India as saying that the Soviet Union still had a long way to go before it could claim to be a free community. One doesn't expect a daughter to condemn her father openly if she has any filial decency, but by all available accounts Svetlana Stalin held to none of bloody old Uncle Joe's Machiavellianisms. From a purely pragmatic point of view, the U.S. might gain much glory by taking Svetlana in and subtly underlining the differences between her opinions and her father's practices. In letting her take the rap for her father's failure to respect the Mexican government when it granted asylum to Trotsky, we are helping poetic justice to miscarry. It makes us party to Stalin's own cold-bloodedly pragmatic way of thinking. We are no longer the land that once fought to

The greatest resistance to lower rates came from some commercial bankers.

Ordinarily when a rate is reduced by a large bank, as it was Jan. 26 by the Chase Manhattan, other banks quickly fall into line. A consensus did not develop this time. Instead, a heated dispute arose.

The split in rates amounted to only ¼ per cent, the difference between 5½ per cent that most banks held to until this week and 5¼ per cent, the rate fixed by Chase for its most credit-worthy customers.

Small as this difference seemed to be it represented a basic dispute about the economy. Most banks felt the demand for loans dictated a 5½ per cent or a 6 per cent interest charge. Chastizing of Chase became commonplace. Whereas in most disputes bankers assume an icy but restrained disdain for opponents, the scorn here was heated and unreserved.

The main charge was that demand for loans did not call for a lowering of rates. Chase's move was premature, bankers said. It was politics, some others said—an attempt to court favor with the Johnson administration.

Gradually, however, the arguments against lowering the rate began to unravel. Business conditions continued to slow and the Fed pursued its easier money policy. More and more banks fell to 5½ per cent.

Last week Morgan Guaranty Trust dropped to the Chase level followed quickly by the Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank. There was no question now: 5½ per cent would prevail.

It was now First National City Bank's move and all bankers knew it. First City is Chase's main New York rival. It alternates with Chase as the nation's second or third largest bank. And it was one of the sources of resistance to a lower rate.

After holding out for two months, First City didn't rush to get in line. Good Friday offered a respite. And the week-end permitted two more days of inactivity.

On Monday morning First City finally dropped its rate and most of the remaining bank that had politely withheld their moves now fell into line.

In dropping the prime rate to 5½ per cent some bankers still insist that Chase's move was premature. In the narrowest sense perhaps it was. In a broader sense it was a stunning victory.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have an allergy and sneeze a great many times during the day. When my nose gets stuffed I put some nose drops in and can breathe well for an hour. Without the drops I am miserable. How long can I continue to use them safely?

Mrs. K.R.T., Indiana
Dear Mrs. T.: People with allergy of the nose complain that they cannot breathe well, that their nose runs a clear liquid and that they sneeze often. The lining of the nose during an attack becomes swollen and further interferes with breathing.

You apparently have fallen into the trap of "over medication" by using too much of the nose drops, too frequently. Technically, this is called "rebound", which means that the tissue of the nose after it is shrunk with drops bounces back and becomes even more congested.

This habit and dependence on the nose drops must be stopped if your nose is to return to normal and again function well. In many cases this is not easy because you will be so uncomfortable for the first few days.

Doctors who treat this condition often have found that small doses of cortisone used under their direction may be helpful as a temporary substitute while the "nose drop habit" is being broken. It takes only a few days of real effort but you will be markedly more comfortable afterwards.

Then, I would advise you to seek treatment for your allergy. Sometimes all that is necessary is an anti-allergy drug which can bring relief. If the condition is very distressing it may be necessary to do skin tests in an effort to uncover the basic cause for your allergy.

I have been told that I have glaucoma and that my pressure is "eleven." What is the normal pressure in the eye and is mine dangerous?

G.B.H., New York
Dear Mr. H.: Numbers are always confusing to patients and, at best, can have no meaning to them. It would do you a great injustice to give you another number that would only cause you more anxiety.

You have been told that you have glaucoma after having been tested with the delicate instrument called the tonometer.

At that time you most certainly should have asked your doctor whether your condition was mild or severe. I am certain that your eye doctor did not give you a "number" and stop there without giving you assurance about your condition.

The seriousness of glaucoma does not depend on a number alone. When once you were told that you have this condition, treatment was undoubtedly started to keep the disorder under control.

The early recognition of glaucoma is so important that hospitals, clinics and private physicians are now on an active campaign to have everyone above the age of 40 tested.

This takes a few moments and records the normal or the abnormal pressure within the eyeball. When glaucoma is found it can be kept from progressing in most cases.

Lack of Consistency

By John Chamberlain

If anything were needed to clinch the proof that America's liberals are no longer liberal, their lack of response when our State Department failed to offer immediate asylum to the defecting Svetlana Stalin, daughter of bloody old "Uncle Joe," is enough to do it.

True enough, in view of Josef Stalin's crimes, Svetlana's appeal for sanctuary was nothing to stir the spontaneous Don Quixote impulses in anyone. But the liberals of a generation ago would have observed that to hold children responsible for the barbarities of their parents is repugnant to a free people who long ago did away with bills of attainder and the idea that there could be a legal "corruption of the blood." Svetlana Stalin, as Representative Paul Findley of Illinois points out, is neither a criminal nor a political trouble maker, and to equivocate about giving her asylum merely to curry favor with the present rulers of Soviet Russia makes us look not only pusillanimous but silly. After all, we offered Juanita Castro, the sister of Cuba's monster, a haven, so where is our consistency?

The failure of liberals to react makes a lugubrious contrast to thirty years ago, when it became known that Leon Trotsky was seeking a New World asylum from the cold wrath of Svetlana Stalin's father. Trotsky never did get a refuge in side the United States, but it was not because the liberals who believed in the right of political asylum let him down. New York, in the mid-Thirties, was boiling with petitions and committees for Trotsky, and everybody in liberalism who was anybody was busy choosing sides. The issue quickly separated the sheep from the goats, for those "liberals" who chose to take the Stalinist side in the battle proved they were no friends of the Bill of Rights and its natural extension in the Right of Asylum.

Eventually Trotsky was stowed away in Mexico in a refuge that turned out to be anything but safe. A distinguished group of U.S. liberals, headed by philosopher John Dewey, journeyed to Mexico City to take testimony which Trotsky hoped would show that Stalin had railroaded him on trumped up charges of treason. The Dewey report absolved Trotsky, but this meant nothing, of course, in Moscow. It did not save Trotsky from being hacked to death with an alpenstock in a Mexico City suburb by a Stalinist murder emissary.

In a way, Svetlana Stalin is the seeming victim of a grisly historical poetic justice. Her father was contemptuous of the liberals who went out on a limb to gain sanctuary for his great adversary Trotsky in the Nineteen Thirties. And now there are no liberals to speak up for the daughter.

But the daughter is not the father. She has never killed anybody. Not much is known about Svetlana's opinions, but she was quoted in India as saying that the Soviet Union still had a long way to go before it could claim to be a free community. One doesn't expect a daughter to condemn her father openly if she has any filial decency, but by all available accounts Svetlana Stalin held to none of bloody old Uncle Joe's Machiavellianisms. From a purely pragmatic point of view, the U.S. might gain much glory by taking Svetlana in and subtly underlining the differences between her opinions and her father's practices. In letting her take the rap for her father's failure to respect the Mexican government when it granted asylum to Trotsky, we are helping poetic justice to miscarry. It makes us party to Stalin's own cold-bloodedly pragmatic way of thinking. We are no longer the land that once fought to outlaw the idea of attainder (meaning that families could be held guilty as a unit for what any single member had done). If Svetlana Stalin continues to have difficulties in exile, it will be taken as a signal everywhere from East Berlin to Peking in one direction, and from Hungary to Hanoi in the other, that the defector from Communism can count on sympathy from America. The world is closed enough as it is. It should be the Number One task of true liberals to get it opened up again. But do the liberals care? No, they want something called "detente." We hope they like it when they get it, for as sure as God made little apples it will be on Brezhnev's and Kosygin's terms.

Communism's Machinery Has Become Outmoded

EDITOR'S NOTE — Communism claims history is on its side. But time is a double-edged sword, and is taking its toll in the Red hierarchy — just one of many problems besetting world communism today. This is the second of three analytical articles on the state of Communist affairs.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Communist party is cautiously probing possibilities for a new world Communist meeting whose purpose would be to examine all the ailments besetting the movement.

The likely time would be in November, when Moscow marks the 50th anniversary of seizure by the Bolsheviks of the

The proposal for a meeting comes from Neues Deutschland, the party paper in East Germany which, in a backhanded way, acknowledged an atmosphere of crisis.

"On the whole," it said, "the international Communist movement has made further progress. The lowest ebb as a result of the differences of opinion begun by the Mao group has been overcome. The struggle for cohesion and unity is spreading throughout the movement. The overwhelming majority of fraternal parties now believe that favorable prerequisites exist for a new discussion among Communist and workers parties."

Translated from Communist language, that means Moscow wants a world meeting to deal with the problem of China and Mao Tse-tung. The Kremlin has had about as much as it can take of Peking's accusations, insults and interference.

The China phenomenon has contributed much to communism's woes. It has caused splits and splinters in parties around the world. But there is more to communism's troubles than the Chinese.

One important factor is that in advanced countries, Communist leadership is growing old. For 50 years the Communists have plotted for power in those nations. Today they seem farther away from it than ever.

One reason, many Western Communists seem to feel, is in Moscow. The demand from Moscow under Stalin for total obedience to all Kremlin flaps, flops and whims did much to damage parties abroad. Today there is a growing tendency among them toward independence of action.

Moscow has a word for that sort of thing: "Opportunism." It means deviating from the line for the sake of improving one's own fortunes.

How have the Communists been doing in advanced countries? Not well.

At first glance, the French Communists would appear to be making gains. They express elation with the recent legislative elections.

In terms of votes, the Communists gained a million over the 1962 French elections. The number of Communist deputies elected rose from 41 to 73. In the first years of President Charles de Gaulle's power, card-carrying Communists dropped by 30,000 but then began increasing again. Today the party claims 20,000 before De Gaulle took over in 1958. But the claim of 425,000 members seems exaggerated. There is another side to the coin. In order to make these gains, the party had to sacrifice cherished tenets, make compromises with non-Communist parties of the left. To gain a look of respectability the party had to criticize Moscow for such things as jailing Soviet writers for expressing their views.

The gains the party made may prove to be temporary. When De Gaulle leaves the scene, the leftist alliance can fall apart, since a parties in it compete for the same votes.

Italy's party of 1,350,000 is regarded as maverick. It, too, seeks alliances, not only with the left, but with the center, including Catholics. It has become respectful of the Vatican's influence. Italian party leaders espouse the idea of "polycentrism," meaning that Moscow is not the only source of authority in the movement. Italy's party often balks at Soviet initiatives. It is as if the leaders feel their only hope for future power is in being less, rather than more Communist.

In the rest of Western Europe, Communist parties, though noisy, are tiny and ineffectual. All are plagued by splinter movements generated by the Moscow-Peking feud.

Communists in West Germany, Austria, the Netherlands, Britain and Scandinavia are sliding downhill as a result of difficulties with tired dogma, tired old leaders and scanty finances. The Belgian party is in the United States, the Communist party pins its hopes on the appearance of widespread ferment over Vietnam and civil rights.

"Our party is the main force in the (U.S.) leftist movement and the most influential party among leftist groups and youth," wrote its leader, Gus Hall, in Pravda, the Communist party paper, late last year.

That points to Communist hopes and ambitions in the United States, but has little to do with reality in terms of Red strength. Communists in the United States remain a puny force, often scorned by Moscow itself. And, small as it is, the party is plagued by the same process of splintering which bogged Communists everywhere in the wake of the Soviet-Chinese rift.

World Communism, Part 2

Communism's Machinery Has Become Outmoded

EDITOR'S NOTE — Communism claims history is on its side. But time is a double-edged sword, and is taking its toll in the Red hierarchy—just one of many problems besetting world communism today. This is the second of three analytical articles on the state of Communist affairs.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Communist party is cautiously probing possibilities for a new world Communist meeting whose purpose would be to examine all the ailments besetting the movement.

The likely time would be in November, when Moscow marks the 50th anniversary of seizure by the Bolsheviks of the

The proposal for a meeting comes from Neues Deutschland, the party paper in East Germany which, in a backhanded way, acknowledged an atmosphere of crisis.

"On the whole," it said, "the international Communist movement has made further progress. The lowest ebb as a result of the differences of opinion begun by the Mao group has been overcome. The struggle for cohesion and unity is spreading throughout the movement. The overwhelming majority of fraternal parties now believe that favorable prerequisites exist for a new discussion among Communist and workers parties."

Translated from Communist language, that means Moscow wants a world meeting to deal with the problem of China and Mao Tse-tung. The Kremlin has had about as much as it can take of Peking's accusations, insults and interference.

The China phenomenon has contributed much to communism's woes. It has caused splits and splinters in parties around the world. But there is more to communism's troubles than the Chinese.

One important factor is that in advanced countries, Communist leadership is growing old. For 50 years the Communists have plotted for power in those nations. Today they seem farther away from it than ever.

One reason, many Western Communists seem to feel, is in Moscow. The demand from Moscow under Stalin for total obedience to all Kremlin flips, flops and whims did much to damage parties abroad. Today there is a growing tendency among them toward independence of action.

Moscow has a word for that sort of thing: "Opportunism." It means deviating from the line for the sake of improving one's own fortunes.

How have the Communists been doing in advanced countries? Not well.

At first glance, the French Communists would appear to be making gains. They express elation with the recent legislative elections.

In terms of votes, the Communists gained a million over the 1962 French elections. The number of Communist deputies elected rose from 41 to 73. In the first years of President Charles de Gaulle's power, card-carrying Communists dropped by 30,000 but then began increasing again. Today the party claims 20,000 before de Gaulle took over in 1958. But the claim of 425,000 members seems exaggerated. There is another side to the coin. In order to make these gains, the party had to sacrifice fluence. Italian party leaders espouse the idea of "polycentrism," meaning that Moscow is not the only source of authority in the movement. Italy's party often balks at Soviet initiatives. It is as if the leaders feel their only hope for future power is in being less, rather than more Communist.

In the rest of Western Europe, Communist parties, though noisy, are tiny and ineffectual. All are plagued by splinter movements generated by the Moscow-Peking feud.

Communists in West Germany, Austria, the Netherlands, Britain and Scandinavia are sliding downhill as a result of difficulties with tired dogma, tired old leaders and scanty finances. The Belgian party is

In the United States, the Communist party pins its hopes on the appearance of widespread ferment over Vietnam and civil rights.

"Our party is the main force in the (U.S.) leftist movement and the most influential party among leftist groups and youth," wrote its leader, Gus Hall, in Pravda, the Communist party paper, late last year.

That points to Communist hopes and ambitions in the United States, but has little to do with reality in terms of Red strength. Communists in the United States remain a puny force, often scorned by Moscow itself. And, small as it is, the party is plagued by the same process of splintering which bogged Communists everywhere in the wake of the Soviet-Chinese rift.

Sgt., Mrs. Leist Feted during Visit Here

Master Sgt. and Mrs. Neil A. Leist, their son Raymond and daughter Cheryl, have been visiting Sgt. Leist's mother, Mrs. Ottis R. Leist, 115 N. Washington St. and other relatives and friends in the Circleville area. Currently they are enroute to San Francisco, from where, on Monday, April 3 they are scheduled to fly to Honolulu, Hawaii, where Sgt. Leist will begin a three year tour of duty in recruiting service for the United States Army.

In addition to the round of activities Mrs. Leist planned for them, they were honored at dinner parties given by Sgt. Leist's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Warner and Marc of Lockbourne, and his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peters of Ashville.

Sgt. Leist's brother, Weldon P. Leist, came from Chicago, Ill. to join them for a weekend family reunion. A nephew, Airman 3 C. Brent E. Warner, was the only member of the family unable to be present for the occasion, but he phoned from Biloxi, Miss.

For the past 8 years, Sgt. Leist has been in the Recruiting service at Valdosta, Georgia. Before he and his family depart for Hawaii, they were granted a leave which took them first to Etowah, Tenn. for a visit with Mrs. Leist's sister and family, then to Suffield, Conn. for a visit with their daughter, son-in-law and three grandchildren, the Joseph Oso-wieckis. Before their arrival in Circleville they were the guests of Mrs. Leist's mother, Mrs. J. A. Rose and family in Akron.

Sgt. Leist, a former resident of Pickaway Twp., enlisted in Jan. 1943 and is serving his 24th year in the U. S. Army. His new mailing address is: M.S.G. Neil A. Leist, USARMS Hawaii, APO 96558, San Francisco, Calif.

Fire Department Auxiliary Meets

Plans for a skating party and a card party were made during a meeting of the Clearcreek Twp. Fire Department Auxiliary, held at the Fire House.

Vice president Charles Shaw opened the meeting by leading the group in repeating the Lord's Prayer. The treasurer and secretary reports were read and approved.

Plans were made to sponsor a skating party at the rink in Amanda on April 21. Plans for the lunch at the April 13 card party were also made.

Lunch was served by the committee to nine members and one guest.

The next meeting will be 7:30 p. m. April 24, at the Fire House. Each member will bring a guest.

Weekly Food Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Food prices dropped again this week, with ham and eggs leading the list.

Pork supplies have been running nearly one-third larger than a year ago.

Supermarket pork prices are far lower than a year ago, and likely to remain so until summer.

Demand for eggs slowed after the Easter holiday. Prices also are expected to stay low until summer.

There are about 5 per cent more hens in the country, and they are working harder. But they don't like hot weather, which is why egg prices will probably go up when summer arrives.

There also are larger supplies this spring of beef, turkeys and chickens.

Too, there also is slightly more milk, despite the split milk across the land.

Milk production started picking up in December, and March through July are the seasonally heavy production months.

Supplies of southern strawberries are increasing, and prices are dropping.

There are other signs of spring, too, in the produce departments, with increasing supplies of asparagus, green onions, and in the Southwest, okra.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes and tomatoes are piling up, along with oranges, grapefruit, bananas, and on the West Coast, grapes and apples.

But canned corn and tomato prices have risen — short supplies.

GM Layoffs

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Motors Corp. blaming a drop in automobile sales, announced Wednesday that 128 white-collar workers will be laid off at six of its plants here, beginning Friday and extending over two or three weeks.

Blackbird Depredation Conference Opens Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wildlife biologists and agricultural authorities from all sections of the nation and Canada gathered here today to take part in the North American Conference on Blackbird Depredation, and to talk over new means of control.

Delegates checking in for the sessions received word that an Ohio Congressman, Republican Rep. Clarence Brown JR. of Urbana, is seeking $1,125,000 from Congress to halt the growing blackbird problem.

The pesky bird is causing $15 million damage in Ohio alone. Panel discussions are to highlight each day's session of the meeting which lasts through Friday at the Neil House.

In today's program, panelists representing farm, county, state and national levels discussed the blackbird problem. On Friday a panel will report on what is being done to control the birds.

John S. Gottschalk, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior, Washington, is to be the banquet speaker Friday.

Pending in the Ohio Legislature is a bill which would permit the state's cooperation with, and acceptance of contributions from any individual or the U.S. government, to further control studies. Recently the Ohio House approved 90-1 a resolution calling on congress to "seek necessary controls to reduce the population of various depredatory birds."

The conference here is just one of several efforts now in progress to find ways to arrest the steadily increasing crop losses due to blackbirds. Of all Ohio crops corn suffers the heaviest losses to birds, but other grain crops are hurt too.

Some farmers have found limited success with scaring devices, one an automatic explosion set to fire at three-minute intervals.

Agronomists of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center have suggested that bird resistant grain sorghum hybrids may help some corn producers avoid costly losses this year. The hybrids offer a possible substitute for corn in areas where bird damage is most severe.

Drowns in Ohio

HIGGINSPORE, Ohio (AP)—Roy Dickerson, 55, Dover, Ky., drowned in the Ohio River Wednesday when he fell from his boat while catching mussels near this Brown County town. The body was recovered.

If you are adding a vanilla bean to sugar, be sure to keep the mixture in a tightly covered container.

Fire Department Auxiliary Meets

Plans for a skating party and a card party were made during a meeting of the Clearcreek Twp. Fire Department Auxiliary, held at the Fire House.

Vice president Charles Shaw opened the meeting by leading the group in repeating the Lord's Prayer. The treasurer and secretary reports were read and approved.

Plans were made to sponsor a skating party at the rink in Amanda on April 21. Plans for the lunch at the April 13 card party were also made.

Lunch was served by the committee to nine members and one guest.

The next meeting will be 7:30 p. m. April 24, at the Fire House. Each member will bring a guest.

Weekly Food Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Food prices dropped again this week, with ham and eggs leading the list.

Pork supplies have been running nearly one-third larger than a year ago.

Supermarket pork prices are far lower than a year ago, and likely to remain so until summer.

Demand for eggs slowed after the Easter holiday. Prices also are expected to stay low until summer.

There are about 5 per cent more hens in the country, and they are working harder. But they don't like hot weather, which is why egg prices will probably go up when summer arrives.

There also are larger supplies this spring of beef, turkeys and chickens.

Too, there also is slightly more milk, despite the split milk across the land.

Milk production started picking up in December, and March through July are the seasonally heavy production months.

Supplies of southern strawberries are increasing, and prices are dropping.

There are other signs of spring, too, in the produce departments, with increasing supplies of asparagus, green onions, and in the Southwest, okra.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes and tomatoes are piling up, along with oranges, grapefruit, bananas, and on the West Coast, grapes and apples.

But canned corn and tomato prices have risen — short supplies.

GM Layoffs

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Motors Corp., blaming a drop in automobile sales, announced Wednesday that 128 white-collar workers will be laid off at six of its plants here, beginning Friday and extending over two or three weeks.

Blackbird Depredation Conference Opens Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wildlife biologists and agricultural authorities from all sections of the nation and Canada gathered here today to take part in the North American Conference on Blackbird Depredation, and to talk over new means of control.

Delegates checking in for the sessions received word that an Ohio Congressman, Republican Rep. Clarence Brown Jr. of Urbana, is seeking $1,125,000 from Congress to halt the growing blackbird problem.

The pesky bird is causing $15 million damage in Ohio alone. Panel discussions are to highlight each day's session of the meeting which lasts through Friday at the Neil House.

In today's program, panelists representing farm, county, state and national levels discussed the blackbird problem. On Friday a panel will report on what is being done to control the birds.

John S. Gottschalk, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior, Washington, is to be the banquet speaker Friday.

Pending in the Ohio Legislature is a bill which would permit the state's cooperation with, and acceptance of contributions from any individual or the U.S. government, to further control studies. Recently the Ohio House approved 90-1 a resolution calling on congress to "seek necessary controls to reduce the population of various

The conference here is just one of several efforts now in progress to find ways to arrest the steadily increasing crop losses due to blackbirds. Of all Ohio crops corn suffers the heaviest losses to birds, but other grain crops are hurt too.

Some farmers have found limited success with scaring devices, one an automatic explosion set to fire at three-minute intervals.

Agonomists of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center have suggested that bird resistant grain sorghum hybrids may help some corn producers avoid costly losses this year. The hybrids offer a possible substitute for corn in areas where bird damage is most severe.

NEW YORK (AP) — There must have been considerable confusion and even some snarls behind the cameras caused by the strike of the performers union Wednesday, but little of it showed on the small screens. The three major networks carried on with a minimum of disruptions.

In fact, it was often quite stimulating for the viewer to be suddenly confronted with an assortment of fresh faces reading the news reports in time spots when for months Edwin Newman or Mike Wallace would unfailingly turn up to read the headlines for five minutes between the game shows and soap operas.

The news reports were the major headache. Chet Huntley was the only familiar face to turn up on the evening news reports. But the earnest bespectacled substitutes — all network executives with some broadcasting experience, handled their jobs with poise and clarity.

CBS, caught without actors for two live soap operas, pulled a pair of antique comedy shows from the shelf. As a result a circa 1956 "I Love Lucy" episode replaced "Love of Life," and a "Candid Camera" episode made in the days when Arthur Godfrey was its host substituted for "As The World Turns."

Today more old shows will be in use during the soap opera emergency. The hour long many seasons back, will replace "Edge of Night" and "Secret Storm." NBC will haul out some shows from the bygone "Loretta Young" series to replace "Another World."

Most of the game and panel shows are taped for a short period ahead.

Evening schedules, even if the strike continues for a long period, will not be disturbed if the current situation remains as it is. Most series on all networks are on film and this season's production is completed. Variety shows, like those headed by Jackie Gleason, Ed Sullivan and Red Skelton are still in production but will be using reruns. The "Today" and "Tonight" shows too will broadcast old shows — which a lot of programs do anyway even when there is no emergency.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Near sunrise today fair skies prevailed with temperatures mostly in the 40s. Toledo, however, reported 34 while Columbus and Bellair had 41, Cincinnati 45, Cleveland and Marietta, 40.

Weather forecasters will watch with deep interest for the next few days a cold front that was entrenched this morning in an extensive low pressure area extending from South Dakota to western Texas.

The eastward-moving cold front was to trigger thunderstorms today that could possibly reach the portion of Ohio near the Indiana state line tonight. Scattered thunderstorms are definitely scheduled for Ohio Friday.

Temperatures tonight will register in the 50s and 60s and mostly in the 70s Friday.

CENTRAL OHIO — Partly cloudy and warmer tonight Low in the mid 50s. Partly cloudy, windy and warm with thundershowers likely Friday. High in the upper 70s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Partly cloudy, windy and warmer tonight and Friday. Scattered thundershowers late tonight or Friday. Low tonight 55-60.

NORTHEAST & EAST CENTRAL OHIO — Partly cloudy, windy and warmer tonight and Friday. Scattered thundershowers Friday. Low tonight in the 50s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Partly cloudy and warmer tonight. Low in the mid 50s. Friday partly cloudy and warm with thundershowers likely. High near 80.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Partly cloudy, windy and warmer tonight and Friday. A chance of showers or thundershowers by Friday morning. Low tonight 55-60.

To Modernize Plant

CLEVELAND (AP) — Republic Steel Corp. announced today it will spend $8 million to modernize facilities at its Youngstown district steel plant.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Jury Duty Fine — Don't Be Choosy

DEAR ABBY: I would like to volunteer for jury duty as I have lots of time on my hands and I think I have as much sense as the next person.

I wouldn't care to sit thru anything boring, but I would be willing to give my time for something worthwhile, like a murder, rape or kidnapping trial.

How can I get on such a jury?

"PATRIOTIC" DEAR "PATRIOTIC": Sorry, but as far as I know there is no way to get on a jury with assurance that the cases will be "worthwhile" according to your yardstick.

DEAR ABBY: A couple of years ago you had a letter in your column from a girl who signed herself "TOO NICE." Then you ran another letter right after it, signed "NOT SORRY," from a girl who said she was "nice" and it paid off.

If you can locate those two letters, please run them again as they would be perfect for discussion period in our Teen Girls Club. Thank you.

DEAR DOTTY: I have "located" them — and here they are:

DEAR ABBY: No offense to you, personally, but you're nuts! I agree with that girl who signed herself, "TOO NICE." She's right. If a girl is too nice she sits home. It's the fast girls who are popular. I am only 16 and I know from experience that the only reason a boy asks you out is for one thing, and if he doesn't get it, you don't see him again. That's no lie, either.

When you said, "If a girl has to fight with a boy to keep his hands off her, she must have led him on," you were wrong. She can be sitting next to him, doing nothing, and he will almost attack her. Since January I have had to break up with three boys because they all tried to go too far. But I'll stay nice because I have my self-respect. But so far it hasn't got me anywhere.

"TOO NICE," TOO DEAR TOO NICE: Another "nice" girl had this to say on the subject:

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have just completed my freshman year at college. I want to tell all those girls who wonder if boys really like a sweet, old fashioned girl what I learned from experience: Don't be shocked if even the best boys try. After I painstakingly explained my views on the matter of morals, many more dates and fine friendships resulted.

Some jokingly called me prudish and mid-Victorian, but I was elected to a position of high honor by the student body. There were times when I actually pitied the girls who allowed boys liberties, thinking it would increase their popularity. (I have a brother, and boys talk.) The girls who parked with boys on dark roads at night were ignored by the same boys in broad daylight. Keep telling young girls that it pays to be nice, Abby. I am, and I am —

New Pastor Is Scheduled In Ashville

The Rev. Robert L. Michelfelder will be installed as pastor of First English Lutheran Church, Ashville, at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Dr. Paul Moeller, president of the Ohio District, American Lutheran Church, will be the guest minister. He also will conduct the installation service.

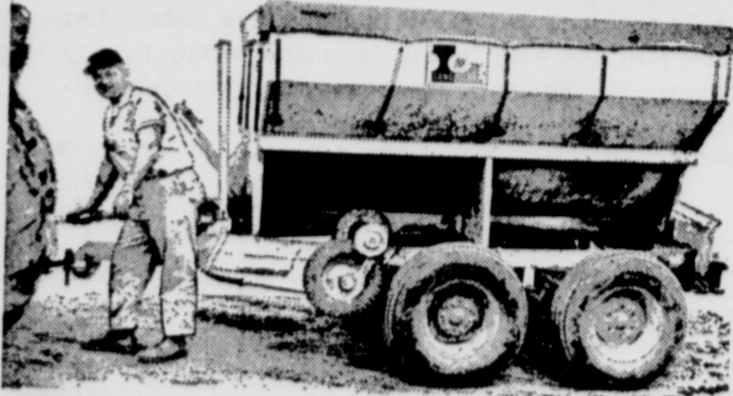

Pastor Michelfelder comes to Ashville after serving 3½ years at St. Paul Lutheran Church, North Star, six miles north of Versailles.

The new Ashville pastor is a native of Lakewood, near Cleveland. He received his public education in Columbus, and Pittsburgh, Penn.

He is a 1959 graduate of Capital University in Columbus and received a bachelor of divinity from Evangelical Lutheran Seminary in Columbus in 1963. He was ordained in June 1963 at Faith Lutheran Church in Cincinnati by his father.

Pastor Michelfelder went to the Versailles congregation in August 1963. He served there until coming to Ashville.

Book Controversy Continues

Defense Dept. Denies Validity Of Some Manchester Statements

NEW YORK (AP) — The Defense Department denies statements in William Manchester's book that President Johnson had not been advised on procedures for ordering nuclear retaliation in the event of an attack following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Security officials in the Kennedy administration also denied that Johnson had not been briefed. The U.S. atomic attack code was carried in a football-shaped satchel that lay in the presidential jet which took Johnson and the body of Kennedy back to Washington from Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Kennedy officials said that at the late president's insistence Johnson had been familiarized thoroughly on the contents of the satchel.

Manchester says in the book, "The Death of a President": "The difficulty was that Johnson had no idea of what was in the bag. He knew that it existed, but he hadn't been briefed about the contents, and if the thunderbolt of all-out war struck that afternoon, the country's retaliatory arsenal could be spiked until he had been led through Ta Shepard's primers for the first time."

Capt. Taewell Shepard was a military aide to President Kennedy.

Manchester also writes: "Had Russia attacked across the DEW line, the greatest military establishment in the history of the world might easily have been muscled during the 15 fateful minutes of warning time and perhaps even afterward, when second-strike capacity became a factor."

A spokesman for the Defense Department issued a statement Tuesday saying: "The statements carried by the press services attributed to William Manchester bearing on the nuclear readiness of the United States on Nov. 22, 1963, were untrue."

"On that date, Lyndon Johnson, as vice president and as president, was fully aware of the procedures used to authorize the release of nuclear weapons in retaliation against attack on the United States."

Manchester also says there was a slowdown in commercial telephone service because of the great load of calls in the hours immediately following the assassination. He says phones in the Senate and House offices, the White House and the Signal Corps had been paralyzed temporarily.

According to Manchester's account, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy roamed the streets in Washington, trying the phones of strangers, until he got through to then-Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to learn if their brother was dead.

It became, obvious that in a national emergency this telephone service) would be the first link to snap," Manchester writes.

Regarding the passages on the slowdown in commercial telephone service, the Defense Department said:

"Governmental communications, military and civil, were fully operational at all times and were far in excess of any requirement arising out of any security emergency. Those secure communications operate independently of commercial systems."

A spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. in Washington said that due to the unusually heavy traffic after the assassination, "if you picked up the phone you might have to wait a few seconds to get a dial tone."

The Defense Department also took issue with a passage in the book which says that fears of an international plot to overthrow the United States government prompted Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to alert every American military base around the world the moment he heard Kennedy had been shot in Dallas.

"By every readable signal, the situation was very red," Manchester says.

On this passage, the Defense Department said:

"The Joint Staff did not order any change in the state of alert of the armed forces following the assassination of President Kennedy. However, the Joint Staff did send a message to the commands informing them of the assassination and cautioning that they should be especially on the alert. Routine posture remained in effect. "Although there was no official change in state of alert, some commands did on their own initiative take special precautions. SAC (Strategic Air Command) was one which tightened up for a few hours before relaxing."

A Pentagon spokesman said that if McNamara ordered an alert, he normally would transmit such an order through the Joint Staff.

Much of the contents of the book, which went on sale in Pittsburgh prematurely Tuesday, has already been serialized in Look magazine.

Florida Voters Upset Tradition

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida emerged Wednesday with the strongest two-party legislature in the once solidly Democratic Deep South, giving its new Republican governor strong veto control.

The voters Tuesday abandoned century-old political traditions and gave Republicans strength they have never known in the court-ordered election of Florida's first one-man, one-vote legislature.

Although only about one-third of the state's 2.5 million voters cast ballots, the electorate — with its first Republican governor in 94 years in office less than three months — gave the GOP a better than one-third minority in the legislative branch.

Republicans won 20 seats in the 48-member senate and 40 in the 119-member house.

Apollo Fire Cause Still Undetermined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Olin E. Teague, a congressional space watchdog, said today, "I don't think we will ever know what caused that fire" which killed three Apollo astronauts.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is expected to release its final report about April 8 on the January accident. The astronauts launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla., during tests.

Teague, a Texas Democrat and chairman of a subcommittee on space, said in an interview he has been in daily contact with the investigators and there has been no indication they have been able to pinpoint the cause.

He said he thinks the thousands of NASA and industry technicians responsible for the Apollo capsule always will have to wonder whether they might have had something to do with the accident.

Asked whether space officials had taken unnecessary risks in pushing ahead the American in a to-the-moon program, Teague said, "Maybe we were a little bit careless." He said some of the safety checks probably should have been more thorough but did not elaborate.

In a preliminary report, NASA said it believes the fire probably was caused by an electrical malfunction under the seat of the Apollo 1 command pilot, Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom. Killed with Grissom in the blaze were Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

After NASA makes its report, Teague's NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Science and Astronautics Committee is to conduct hearings on the NASA investigation.

Business Briefs

A practical demonstration of concrete finishing techniques will be presented April 4 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, 4-H and Grange Building. The program will start at 7:30 p. m.

A. R. Cesarone, regional construction superintendent for the Portland Cement Assn. Chicago, Ill., will conduct the demonstration. Prior to joining Portland, he worked as a journeyman cement mason for 17 years. He saw considerable experience in residential, commercial and industrial construction activities.

Included in Cesarone's program are actual exhibitions of correct finishing techniques, proper work tools and advanced work methods used in common and decorative flatwork. The main accent on the demonstration is quality concrete construction.

The program is sponsored by ready mixed concrete companies in South Central Ohio, including Basic Construction Materials of Circleville, Chillicothe and Washington Court House.

Home, Hospital Board Meet Set

The Circleville Home and Hospital Board of Directors will meet 9:30 a. m. Wednesday in the home of Miss Mary Heffner, 154 E. Mound St.

Long Hot Summer Looms For Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It's beginning to look like a long, hot summer in the Ohio Legislature and some lawmakers think autumn leaves will be falling before the end comes to the unpredictable session.

They say it all depends on the fate of Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal for an Ohio Bond Commission which, barring legal complications, will go before voters in a statewide primary May 2.

This was the speculation of some observers today as the House and Senate called up a handful of routine bills to end their 12th work week. It was a busy week that included introduction of several major bills, some of which will require weeks of extensive hearings before they reach the floor of either chamber.

In Wednesday's developments:

—The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill aimed at curbing summer racial riots by making manufacture or use of fire bombs punishable by one to five years in prison. The vote was 82-10.

—The House voted 71-22 to outlaw the use of tires with metal spikes and studs on Ohio highways from May 1 to Nov. 1.

—The Senate voted unanimously to permit making duplicate copies of printed returns from certain types of voting machines and to extend from two years to four the terms of treasurer in non-charter cities with less than 100,000 population.

—The governor sent to both Houses his master plan for vocational education in Ohio—his second legislative message of the week. Both carried promises of capital improvements keyed to passage of the Bond Commission resolution.

Although the legislature completed its approval of the bond commission several weeks ago, it now is apparent the lawmakers won't get much done until after the voters have spoken. The governor has strongly indicated he expects GOP members of the legislature to do their share of campaigning for the proposal. This will take time.

In addition, if the voters approve, there must be implementing legislation for the five-member commission which would be given the authority, within certain limits, to float bonds for capital improvements without voter approval.

It is generally agreed that the present legislature will have the job of implementation. Otherwise, the administration says, the state will have no funds for capital improvements during the next two years.

The governor's message Wednesday on vocational education outlined a system of vocational education centers through the state. It would cost $80 million in state funds which could be made available "through the certification and bond issuing procedures of the Ohio Bond Commission. . .", Rhodes said.

His message earlier in the week reviewed the State Board of Regents' master plan for higher education and it, too, was keyed to the bond commission to the tune of $335 million. Rhodes called on the legislature to "endorse" both plans.

Other indications of a long session includes introduction only this week of major bills to permit private insurance companies to sell workmen's compensation insurance, to increase unemployment compensation benefits, and to split into separate agencies the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. In addition, there still is no administration school foundation bill, and hearings are yet to begin on the governor's proposed $2 billion 1967-69 operating budget. "Any way you look at it, we've hardly begun," said one disgruntled lawmaker.

Twenty-two new bills were introduced in the two Houses Wednesday. They included a proposal to ban use of automatic bird-scaring devices from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, to change the name of the Ohio Higher Education Assistance Commission to the Ohio Student Loan Commission and also make it eligible to participate in federal loan programs, and increase the salaries of sheriffs to minimums of $7,560 to $22,120 a year, based on county populations. Present minimums are $5,400 to $15,800.

Other measures would set up a public defender's office in each county and set salaries the same as for prosecutors, allow municipalities to levy sales taxes on hotel rooms, and reimburse county welfare boards for transporting mentally retarded students.

Hearings continued on the proposed highway safety bill before the House Highway and Motor Vehicles Committee.

Co. Robert M. Chiaramonte, Highway Patrol Superintendent, testified his organization can do as good a job in eliminating unsafe autos with random vehicle inspections as states with compulsory inspection.

A proposal for Ohio to adopt compulsory inspection is becoming controversial, with the patrol and the Department of Highway Safety wanting compulsory inspection knocked out of the bill.

Chiaramonte also testified random inspection would require fewer patrolmen and would save money. Others have noted that a random car inspection also would save motorists' the charges compulsory inspection would bring.

St. Paul Service Well Attended

The Fellowship Worship Service, held in St. Paul's AME Church, was well attended. Rev. Frederick Johnson, a former pastor of St. Paul brought the message. Miss Bessie Bayless, Frankfurt, sang at the service.

Scripture and comment was given by Evangelist Warren Davis. Comments and Benediction were delivered by Pastor Henry Walter of the Presbyterian Church.

Florida Voters Upset Tradition

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida emerged Wednesday with the strongest two-party legislature in the once solidly Democratic Deep South, giving its new Republican governor strong veto control.

The voters Tuesday abandoned century-old political traditions and gave Republicans strength they have never known in the court-ordered election of Florida's first one-man, one-vote legislature.

Although only about one-third of the state's 2.5 million voters cast ballots, the electorate — with its first Republican governor in 94 years in office less than three months — gave the GOP a better than one-third minority in the legislative branch.

Republicans won 20 seats in the 48-member senate and 40 in the 119-member house.

A two-thirds vote is needed in the Florida Legislature to override a veto.

Not since Reconstruction has the GOP held such leverage in a government of a Deep South state.

Gov. Claude Kirk laid his political prestige on the line as he campaigned for Republican legislative candidates.

But many — including Kirk himself — expressed doubt that he had become sufficiently popular to pull into office as many Republicans as were elected.

Democrats outnumber Republicans on the registration books 4-1.

Kirk was elected last November on an anti-Johnson administration program that embraced no new taxes, all-out war on crime, opposition to rising food prices, and "normal" economic growth. It was the political upset of the century in Florida.

Kirk had called upon the voters in the legislative campaign to "show your dissatisfaction with the Johnson administration as you did in November."

Kirk's controversial "war on crime," which is being run by a private detective agency, was not a issue in any legislative race.

A federal court declared Florida's old apportionment unconstitutional because it was weighted toward rural votes. A new reapportionment — meeting the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote dictum — was drawn by the court Feb. 13 and elections ordered to fill it.

Apollo Fire Cause Still Undetermined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Olin E. Teague, a congressional space watchdog, said today, "I don't think we will ever know what caused that fire" which killed three Apollo astronauts.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is expected to release its final report about April 8 on the January accident. The astronauts launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla., during tests.

Teague, a Texas Democrat and chairman of a subcommittee on space, said in an interview he has been in daily contact with the investigators and there has been no indication they have been able to pinpoint the cause.

He said he thinks the thousands of NASA and industry technicians responsible for the Apollo capsule always will have to wonder whether they might have had something to do with the accident.

Asked whether space officials had taken unnecessary risks in pushing ahead the American in a n-to-the-moon program, Teague said, "Maybe we were a little bit careless." He said some of the safety checks probably should have been more thorough but did not elaborate.

In a preliminary report, NASA said it believes the fire probably was caused by an electrical malfunction under the seat of the Apollo 1 command pilot, Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom. Killed with Grissom in the blaze were: Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

After NASA makes its report, Teague's NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Science and Astronautics Committee is to conduct hearings on the NASA investigation.

Business Briefs

A practical demonstration of concrete finishing techniques will be presented April 4 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, 4-H and Grange Building. The program will start at 7:30 p. m.

A. R. Cesarone, regional construction superintendent for the Portland Cement Assn. Chicago, Ill., will conduct the demonstration. Prior to joining Portland, he worked as a journeyman cement mason for 17 years. He saw considerable experience in residential, commercial and industrial construction activities.

Included in Cesarone's program are actual exhibitions of correct finishing techniques, proper work tools and advanced work methods used in common and decorative flatwork. The main accent on the demonstration is quality concrete construction.

The program is sponsored by ready mixed concrete companies in South Central Ohio, including Basic Construction Materials of Circleville, Chillicothe and Washington Court House.

Long Hot Summer Looms For Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's beginning to look like a long, hot summer in the Ohio Legislature and some lawmakers think autumn leaves will be falling before the end comes to the unpredictable session.

They say it all depends on the fate of Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal for an Ohio Bond Commission which, barring legal complications, will go before voters in a statewide primary May 2.

This was the speculation of some observers today as the House and Senate called up a handful of routine bills to end their 12th work week. It was a busy week that included introduction of several major bills, some of which will require weeks of extensive hearings before they reach the floor of either chamber.

In Wednesday's developments:

—The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill aimed at curbing summer racial riots by making manufacture or use of fire bombs punishable by one to five years in prison. The vote was 82-10.

—The House voted 71-22 to outlaw the use of tires with metal spikes and studs on Ohio highways from May 1 to Nov. 1.

—The Senate voted unanimously to permit making duplicate copies of printed returns from certain types of voting machines and to extend from two years to four the terms of treasurer in non-charter cities with less than 100,000 population.

—The governor sent to both Houses his master plan for vocational education in Ohio — his second legislative message of the week. Both carried promises of capital improvements keyed to passage of the Bond Commission resolution.

Although the legislature completed its approval of the bond commission several weeks ago, it now is apparent the lawmakers won't get much done until after the voters have spoken. The governor has strongly indicated he expects GOP members of the legislature to do their share of campaigning for the proposal. This will take time.

In addition, if the voters approve, there must be implementing legislation for the five-member commission which would be given the authority, within certain limits, to float bonds for capital improvements without voter approval.

It is generally agreed that the present legislature will have the job of implementation. Otherwise, the administration says, the state will have no funds for capital improvements during the next two years.

The governor's message Wednesday on vocational education outlined a system of vocational education centers through the state. It would cost $80 million in state funds which could be made available "through the certification and bond issuing procedures of the Ohio Bond Commission..." Rhodes said.

His message earlier in the week reviewed the State Board of Regents' master plan for higher education and it, too, was keyed to the bond commission to the tune of $335 million. Rhodes called on the legislature to "endorse" both plans.

Other indications of a long session include introduction only this week of major bills to permit private insurance companies to sell workmen's compensation insurance, to increase unemployment compensation benefits, and to split into separate agencies the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. In addition, there still is no administration school foundation bill, and hearings are yet to begin on the governor's proposed $2 billion 1967-69 operating budget. "Any way you look at it, we've hardly begun," said one disgruntled lawmaker.

Twenty-two new bills were introduced in the two Houses ednesday. They included a proposal to ban use of automatic bird-scaring devices from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, to change the name of the Ohio Higher Education Assistance Commission to the Ohio Student Loan Commission and also make it eligible to participate in federal loan programs, and increase the salaries of sheriffs to minimums of $7,560 to $22,120 a year, based on county populations. Present minimums are $5,400 to $15,800.

Other measures would set up a public defender's office in each county and set salaries the same as for prosecutors, allow municipalities to levy sales taxes on hotel rooms, and reimburse county welfare boards for transporting mentally retarded students.

Hearings continued on the proposed highway safety bill before the House Highway and Motor Vehicles Committee.

Co. Robert M. Chiaramonte, Highway Patrol Superintendent, testified his organization can do as good a job in eliminating unsafe autos with random vehicle inspections as states with compulsory inspection.

A proposal for Ohio to adopt compulsory inspection is becoming controversial, with the patrol and the Department of Highway Safety wanting compulsory inspection knocked out of the bill.

Chiaramonte also testified random inspection would require fewer patrolmen and would save money. Others have noted that a random car inspection also would save motorists' charges compulsory inspection would bring.

Kingston News Report

By Miss Margaret Thomas
Phone NI 2-3495

The Seniors of Zane Trace High School arrived home Tuesday morning from their annual trip to New York and Washington D. C., a tired, but happy group. Two buses were chartered for the 51 seniors and their chaperons. Mr. and Mrs. Dameron and Mr. and Mrs. Sigler. They visited the usual places of interest in Washington including the Capitol building, White House and government buildings, and Mt. Vernon. In New York they saw the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, the United Nations and other famous places.

Among the seniors were Bob Meadows, Tom Taylor, Bob Strausbaugh, Bill Lennox, Jerry Bennett, Jim McVey, Bill Justice, Russell Valentine, Linda Edwards, Jane Ann Sims, Annie Barker, Janet Lyons, Donna Anderson, Debbie Dearth, Anita Dettly.

They all report a good time and the weather was perfect for the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Boggs left Sunday for a vacation of a week or ten days in Florida. They are looking forward to the return of their son, Spec-4, John Boggs, from Vietnam about the middle of April.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Yapple of Columbus visited with his mother, Mrs. Willard Yapple, on Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills were here several days last week and remained for Easter at their home.

The March meeting of Isabella Thoburn Circle was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Marlene Schneider, with 11 members and one guest present. The guest was Mrs. William Canter.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Cecil Bower presided. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Dwight Davis. She also presented devotions, reading an article about Isabella Thoburn and a sermon by Peter Marshall "The Rock That Moved."

During the business, Mrs. John B. Thomas announced that the Couples Club will have a carry-in dinner at the next meeting, Mar. 31. Mrs. Harry Hill told of another shipment of plastic bags to work on. The Circle expressed its appreciation to Mrs. Schneider and Mrs. Forrest Coey for table decorations at the time of the district meeting and quarterly conference here.

The meeting closed with a circle prayer. A shower of baby things was then presented to Mrs. Dale Kreisel, followed by refreshments served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rounsley and children Richard, Suzanne, Pamela, Deborah and David left Thursday afternoon for Hancock, Mich., where they will visit Mrs. Rounsley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton. Mrs. Rounsley's sisters and their families will also be there for a family gathering.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Rounsley will lecture at Michigan Tech, Houghton, Mich. as he has been doing at other colleges. They expect to remain at the Fultons through this week.

Honor guest at a bridal shower at the Lyon's home was Miss Sue Cloud. Hostesses were Miss Kathy Lyons, Mrs. Harold Albert, Mrs. William Moss Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Synder. The gift and refreshment tables were decorated in yellow and white and a floral arrangement centered the mantel. Prizes for the games were won by Mrs. Dan Vollmar and Mrs. Lawrence Kerns.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses.

Guests on Palm Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kreisel and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kreisel were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kreisel of Galloway, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meders and children of Columbus.

To celebrate Janet's 18th birthday, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons entertained at dinner Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and sons, John, Dan, and Tom.

Larry Large left from Ft. Lewis, Wash. last week and has arrived in Vietnam. He is a member of the special forces "Green Berets." At present he is taking reports by helicopter from Pleiku to De Nang.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sunderland went to Hamilton Sunday to return their grandchildren, Donna and T. K. Trueman, who had been visiting them for several days.

Mrs. Wava Norman accompanied her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Willard England to Columbus and spent Easter with her granddaughter and husband, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Brown and children.

Word has been received here of the Mar. 11 marriage in Stockport, England of Miss Susan Ann Canter and Brian Gordon Howard of Colwyn Bay, Wales.

Miss Canter was living with her mother, Mrs. Emmie Canter in Stockport. She is the daughter of William A. Canter of Kingston. In 1964 she and her mother spent five weeks with relatives here. Her grandparents are Mr. Roy B. Canter and the late Mrs. Canter.

Mrs. Charles Miller entertained her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller and children Johnna and Robert of Grove City as Easter guests.

Easter dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Freshour were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gearhart; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Gearhart; and David and John, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Gearhart and Byron and Mr. and Mrs. Judd Dresbach.

The W. S. Rhode's hosted their two sons and families as Easter guests. In the family group were Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Rhoades and Jane Ellen, Carol, Robin, and Roy Jr.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rhoades and sons

Ag Leaders To Discuss Blackbirds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Agricultural leaders and farmers from 25 states and Canada meet here Thursday and Friday to discuss methods to control blackbirds.

Swarms of blackbirds annually damage $50 million to $100 million worth of crops, $15 million in Ohio alone, authorities say.

In addition, the Air Force reports a bird-aircraft collision problem. In 1965 a reported 1,200 such collisions occurred, with an annual loss of $10 million attributable to birds.

The North American Conference on Blackbird Depredation in Agriculture is sponsored by the Ohio Department of Agriculture and other agencies. More than 100 agricultural leaders are expected to attend.

Pontious Church Conference Set

The Pontious EUB Local Church Conference will be held Wednesday evening after Prayer Services with the church pastor in charge.

All officials are urged to attend. First quarterly reports are due at this meeting.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat mostly 3 lower 1.57-1.62, mostly 1.59-1.60; No 2 yellow corn mostly unchanged 1.24-1.30 per bu, mostly 1.27-1.28; No 2 oats mostly unchanged 69-75, mostly 70; No 1 soybeans mostly 1 lower 2.69-2.75, mostly 2.71-2.72.

Layne and Bradley.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr gathered at their home for Easter Sunday. All were there except Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Orr of Kent.

Miss Mildred Holderman had as her Easter guests Mrs. Elizabeth O. Bennett and Mr. A. D. Ellis.

Attending the annual spring meeting of the district WSCS at Logan on Wednesday were Mrs. Harry Hill, Mrs. Herbert Lemley, Mrs. W. R. Sunderland and Mrs. Fairy Alkire. The theme for the meeting was "With One Spirit."

The Village Belle's for the Kingston Festival to be held July 27, 28, and 29 have been elected by the Festival committee. Continuing as belles will be Donna Bennett and Pam Timmons. New members are Ann Gearhart, Joyce Goodman and Ann Kerns.

Historical Society Effort

Pickaway County To Have Museum

Executive board members, consisting of officers and trustees of the Pickaway County Historical Society, have voted unanimously to proceed with restoration of the Clark-May home as a museum for this community.

The restoration project was covered in detail during a lengthy session of society officials. Although certain parts of the building were found to need considerable repair, consultant Lester Gamble advised that the home was structurally sound.

In his report to the society, Gamble said, "This property represents a good, sound investment for an historical museum for the people of Pickaway County to uphold and support, and to pass on to future generations the proud history of this county."

He further stated that at the present time he knew "of no other site or proposal that would provide a comparable place for a museum for the investment which must be made."

GAMBLE continued by saying that at such time the Historical Society might find it necessary to move on to larger facilities, the investment made would be advantageous. The estimate of cost provided the society was made on the basis of detailed classifications of expense which will permit improvements to be made to the extent of available funds.

The executive board also authorized the president to assemble the finance committee for the purpose of developing a drive for public support and financial assistance in seeking to complete the project in its entirety.

Harford Renick, chairman of the building committee, has called a session of his group for the purpose of permitting a early award of contracts.

In addition to the president, officers present included Mrs. Ray W. Davis, vice president; Mrs. Robert Adkins, recording secretary; and M. E. Noggle, treasurer.

Trustees voting on the project were Miss Nelle Osterle, Mrs. Martin Cromley, Harry Heffner, Mrs. Thomas Renick, Harford Renick, Dwight Steele, Mrs. Paul Cromley, Paul Johnson, Mrs. Robert Smith and Ralph Woolever.

Committee members in attendance were Miss Dheil Renick, Mrs. Roger May and Robert Smith.

BOSTON (AP) — Edward J. Logue Boston redevelopment administrator told a recent legislative hearing that only help from the suburbs will enable Boston to balance the racial makeup of its schools which he says will be more than 50 per cent Negro in five years.

ance were Miss Dheil Renick, Mrs. Roger May and Robert Smith.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — "There wasn't a dry eye in the place."

Those are the words of one of President Johnson's aides. The place was Guam where the President, surrounded by his top advisors, met with South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

And this was the occasion: Ky handed the President an embossed copy of South Vietnam's new constitution which Saigon's constituent assembly, after working on it since September, had just approved so Ky could take it to Guam.

If the Americans were moved to tears it was because this constitution was the first solid step toward a democratic society by a people who had endured centuries of domination by Chinese, mandarins, emperors, and the colonialist French.

The same Johnson aide said that before Ky left Saigon he had worked four days and nights to get the constitution through the assembly. Election of a president and a new assembly will follow in a few months.

"The Americans were fatigued by their long journey to Guam," the aide said, "but Ky should have been exhausted. He wasn't. He was very self-confident." Newsmen who watched and heard him at Guam can testify to that.

Ky asserted himself at Guam — to such an extent that he took the headlines away from Johnson — and has continued to do so since, which may have a significant effect on the war and American relations with South Vietnam.

In the past week some prominent South Vietnamese have expressed great hope for the future, believing a popularly-supported, established government will take the starch out of the Viet Cong and induce North Vietnam to talk peace.

They were realistic enough to believe that just achieving a democratic government is not enough — to prove it can endure will take a little time and until then American help will continue to be needed.

At a news conference in Guam Ky called for broadening and intensifying the war against North Vietnam. He blasted those American critics of Johnson and the war who call for an end to bombing the North and for a coalition government in South Vietnam to include the present enemy, the Viet Cong.

Ky said: "It's now our turn to say something. We are not going to accept communism in South Vietnam and nobody is going to be able to impose communism on us. We will never accept a coalition with Communists."

But the self-confidence didn't first show itself at Guam. When Johnson last February ordered a bombing pause over the Vietnamese lunar new year, hoping this might persuade North Vietnam to make a peace move, nothing happened.

It will probably go down as a futile American gesture. But one significant thing, perhaps overlooked, did happen in connection with the lunar pause.

Ky's South Vietnamese government by then had reached a point of such self-confidence that in a surprise move it offered to discuss with North Vietnam a much longer pause in the bombing. North Vietnam did not accept.

Still later, immediately after the Guam meeting, South Vietnam's chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu, announced his government had proposed a peace meeting with the North, saying that if they were ready, "We are ready."

This apparently was part of South Vietnam's reply — which wasn't made public until this week — to the three-step peace proposal made by U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thant had suggested, in this order, a stand-by truce in Vietnam, then preliminary talks before an international conference, then the conference. South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Do, said his country had agreed "in principle" with Thant's suggestion.

But he said his country additionally proposed that the two Vietnams meet immediately to discuss "details and control" of a cease-fire.

This South Vietnam reaction — and it seems to be the American reaction — was that you can't suddenly have a truce without first discussing the details and agreeing to the rules for it.

Kingston News Report

By Miss Margaret Thomas
Phone NI 2-3495

The Seniors of Zane Trace High School arrived home Tuesday morning from their annual trip to New York and Washington D. C., a tired, but happy group. Two busses were chartered for the 51 seniors and their chaperons. Mr. and Mrs. Sigler, Mr. and Mrs. Siger, they visited the usual places of interest in Washington including the Capitol building, White House and government buildings, and Mt. Vernon. In New York they saw the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, the United Nations and other famous places.

Among the seniors were Bob Meadows, Tom Taylor, Bob Strausbaugh, Bill Lennox, Jerry Bennett, Jim McVey, Bill Justice, Russell Valentine, Linda Edwards, Jane Ann Sims, Annie Barker, Janet Lyons, Donna Anderson, Debbie Dearth, Anita Dettly.

They all report a good time and the weather was perfect for the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Boggs left Sunday for a vacation of a week or ten days in Florida. They are looking forward to the return of their son, Spec-4, John Boggs, from Vietnam about the middle of April.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Yapple of Columbus visited with his mother, Mrs. Willard Yapple, on Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills were here several days last week and remained for Easter at their home.

The March meeting of Isabella Thoburn Circle was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Marlene Schneider, with 11 members and one guest present. The guest was Mrs. William Canter.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Cecil Bower presided. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Dwight Davis. She also presented devotions, reading an article about Isabella Thoburn and a sermon by Peter Marshall "The Rock That Moved."

During the business, Mrs. John B. Thomas announced that the Couples Club will have a carry-in dinner at the next meeting, Mar. 31. Mrs. Harry Hill told of another shipment of plastic bags to work on. The Circle expressed its appreciation to Mrs. Schneider and Mrs. Forrest Coey for table decorations at the time of the district meeting and quarterly conference here.

The meeting closed with a circle prayer. A shower of baby things was then presented to Mrs. Dale Kreisel, followed by refreshments served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rounsley and children Richard, Suzanne, Pamela, Deborah and David left Thursday afternoon for Hancock, Mich., where they will visit Mrs. Rounsley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton. Mrs. Rounsley's sisters and their families will also be there for a family gathering.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Rounsley will lecture at Michigan Tech, Houghton, Mich. as he has been doing at other colleges. They expect to remain at the Fultons through this week.

Honor guest at a bridal shower at the Lyon's home was Miss Sue Cloud. Hostesses were Miss Kathy Lyons, Mrs. Harold Albert, Mrs. William Moss Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Synder. The gift and refreshment tables were decorated in yellow and white and a floral arrangement centered the mantel. Prizes for the games were won by Mrs. Dan Vollmar and Mrs. Lawrence Kerns.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses.

Guests on Palm Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kreisel and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kreisel were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kreisel of Galloway, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meders and children of Columbus.

To celebrate Janet's 18th birthday, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons entertained at dinner Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and sons, John, Dan, and Tom.

Larry Large left from Ft. Lewis, Wash. last week and has arrived in Vietnam. He is a member of the special forces "Green Berets." At present he is taking reports by helicopter from Pleiku to De Nang.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sunder land went to Hamilton Sunday to return their grandchildren, Donna and T. K. Trueman, who had been visiting them for several days.

Mrs. Wava Norman accompanied her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Willard England to Columbus and spent Easter with her granddaughter and husband, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Brown and children.

Word has been received here of the Mar. 11 marriage in Stockport, England of Miss Susan Ann Canter and Brian Gordon Howard of Colwyn Bay, Wales.

Miss Canter was living with her mother, Mrs. Emmie Canter in Stockport. She is the daughter of William A. Canter of Kingston. In 1964 she and her mother spent five weeks with relatives here. Her grandparents are Mr. Roy B. Canter and the late Mrs. Canter.

Mrs. Charles Miller entertained her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller and children Johnna and Robert of Grove City as Easter guests.

Easter dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Freshour were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gearhart; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Gearhart; and David and John, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Gearhart and Byron and Mr. and Mrs. Judd Dressbach.

The W. S. Rhoades hosted their two sons and families as Easter guests. In the family group were Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Rhoades and Jane Ellen, Carol, Robin, and Roy Jr.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rhoades and sons

Ag Leaders To Discuss Blackbirds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Agricultural leaders and farmers from 25 states and Canada meet here Thursday and Friday to discuss methods to control blackbirds.

Swarms of blackbirds annually damage $50 million to $100 million worth of crops, $15 million in Ohio alone, authorities say.

In addition, the Air Force reports a bird - aircraft collision problem. In 1965 a reported 1,200 such collisions occurred, with an annual loss of $10 million attributable to birds.

The North American Conference on Blackbird Depredation in Agriculture is sponsored by the Ohio Department of Agriculture and other agencies. More than 100 agricultural leaders are expected to attend.

Pontious Church Conference Set

The Pontious EUB Local Church Conference will be held Wednesday evening after Prayer Services with the church pastor in charge.

All officials are urged to attend. First quarterly reports are due at this meeting.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat mostly 3 lower 1.57-1.62, mostly 1.59-1.60; No 2 yellow corn mostly unchanged 1.24-1.30 per bu, mostly 1.27-1.28; No 2 oats mostly unchanged 69-75, mostly 70; No 1 soybeans mostly 1 lower 2.69-2.75, mostly 2.71-2.72.

Layne and Bradley.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr gathered at their home for Easter Sunday. All were there except Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Orr of Kent.

Miss Mildred Holderman had as her Easter guests Mrs. Elizabeth O. Bennett and Mr. A. D. Ellis.

Attending the annual spring meeting of the district WSCS at Logan on Wednesday were Mrs. Harry Hill, Mrs. Herbert Lemley, Mrs. W. R. Sunderland and Mrs. Fairy Alkire. The theme for the meeting was "With One Spirit."

The Village Belle's for the Kingston Festival to be held July 27, 28, and 29 have been elected by the Festival committee. Continuing as belles will be Donna Bennett and Pam Timmons. New members are Ann Gearhart, Joyce Goodman and Ann Kerns.

Historical Society Effort

Pickaway County To Have Museum

Executive board members, consisting of officers and trustees of the Pickaway County Historical Society, have voted unanimously to proceed with restoration of the Clark-May home as a museum for this community.

The restoration project was covered in detail during a lengthy session of society officials. Although certain parts of the building were found to need considerable repair, consultant Lester Gamble advised that the home was structurally sound.

In his report to the society, Gamble said, "This property represents a good, sound investment for an historical museum for the people of Pickaway County to uphold and support, and to pass on to future generations the proud history of this county."

He further stated that at the present time he knew "of no other site or proposal that would provide a comparable place for a museum for the investment which must be made."

GAMBLE continued by saying that at such time the Historical Society might find it necessary to move on to larger facilities, the investment made would be advantageous. The estimate of cost provided the society was made on the basis of detailed classifications of expense which will permit improvements to be made to the extent of available funds.

The executive board also authorized the president to assemble the finance committee for the purpose of developing a drive for public support and financial assistance in seeking to complete the project in its entirety.

Harford Renick, chairman of the building committee, has called a session of his group for the purpose of permitting a early award of contracts.

In addition to the president, officers present included Mrs. Ray W. Davis, vice president; Mrs. Robert Adkins, recording secretary; and M. E. Noggle, treasurer.

Trustees voting on the project were Miss Nelle Oesterle, Mrs. Martin Cromley, Harry Heffner, Mrs. Thomas Renick, Harford Renick, Dwight Steele, Mrs. Paul Cromley, Paul Johnson, Mrs. Robert Smith and Ralph Woolever.

Coming Problem

BOSTON (AP) — Edward J. Logue Boston redevelopment administrator told a recent legislative hearing that only help from the suburbs will enable Boston to balance the racial makeup of its schools which he says will be more than 50 per cent Negro in five years.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — "There wasn't a dry eye in the place."

Those are the words of one of President Johnson's aides. The place was Guam where the President, surrounded by his top advisors, met with South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

And this was the occasion: Ky handed the President an embossed copy of South Vietnam's new constitution which Saigon's constituent assembly, after working on it since September, had just approved so Ky could take it to Guam.

If the Americans were moved to tears it was because this constitution was the first solid step toward a democratic society by a people who had endured endless centuries of domination by Chinese, mandarins, emperors, and the colonialist French.

The same Johnson aide said that before Ky left Saigon he had worked four days and nights to get the constitution through the assembly. Election of a president and a new assembly will follow in a few months.

"The Americans were fatigued by their long journey to Guam," the aide said, "but Ky should have been exhausted. He wasn't. He was very self-confident." Newsmen who watched and heard him at Guam can testify to that.

Ky asserted himself at Guam — to such an extent that he took the headlines away from Johnson — and has continued to do so since, which may have a significant effect on the war and American relations with South Vietnam.

In the past week some prominent South Vietnamese have expressed great hope for the future, believing a popularly supported, established government will take the starch out of the Viet Cong and induce North Vietnam to talk peace.

They were realistic enough to believe that just achieving a democratic government is not enough — to prove it can endure will take a little time and until then American help will continue to be needed.

At a news conference in Guam Ky called for broadening and intensifying the war against North Vietnam. He blasted those American critics of Johnson and the war who call for an end to bombing the North and for a coalition government in South Vietnam to include the present enemy, the Viet Cong. Ky said: "It's now our turn to say something. We are not going to accept communism in South Vietnam and nobody is going to be able to impose communism on us. We will never accept a coalition with Communists."

But the self-confidence didn't first show itself at Guam. When Johnson last February ordered a bombing pause over the Vietnamese lunar new year, hoping this might persuade North Vietnam to make a peace move, nothing happened.

It will probably go down as a futile American gesture. But one significant thing, perhaps overlooked, did happen in connection with the lunar pause.

Ky's South Vietnamese government by then had reached a point of such self-confidence that in a surprise move it offered to discuss with North Vietnam a much longer pause in the bombing. North Vietnam did not accept.

Still later, immediately after the Guam meeting, South Vietnam's chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu, announced his government had proposed a peace meeting with the North, saying that if they were ready, "We are ready."

This apparently was part of South Vietnam's reply — which wasn't made public until this week — to the three-step peace proposal made by U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thant had suggested, in this order, a stand-by truce in Vietnam, then preliminary talks before an international conference, then the conference. South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Do, said his country had agreed "in principle" with Thant's suggestion.

But he said his country additionally proposed that the two Vietnams meet immediately to discuss "details and control" of a cease-fire.

This South Vietnam reaction — and it seems to be the American reaction — was that you can't suddenly have a truce without first discussing the details and agreeing to the rules for it.

Cincy Royals Are Getting New Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals can expect to have a new coach "within a week to ten days," General Manager Pepper Wilson said after the announcement that Jack McMahon has accepted another job.

McMahon, who had led the Royals since 1963, Wednesday was named coach and general manager of the new National Basketball Association team at San Diego.

There had been talk that McMahon's days at Cincinnati were numbered ever since the Royals went on a losing streak last season. The team finished with a 39-42 record for third place in the NBA's Eastern Division. McMahon's record in the NBA is 199-160.

"I think Jack did a very good job for us," Wilson said Wednesday night when reached by telephone at Denver. "San Diego asked for permission to talk to him about that job a month ago, and we gave them permission. His interest in the job was an open secret."

"Jack was sensible enough to know that a change was in the picture."

As far as successors are concerned, Wilson said "there are quite a few fellows who have expressed an interest in the job" but they have other commitments. He declined to mention any names or even comment on whether Frank Ramsey, former University of Kentucky and Boston Celtics star, is one of the leading candidates.

Other names mentioned in connection with the job are former coaches Paul Seymour and Harry Gallatin, and Arlen Bockhorn, a former Royals player.

McMahon, 38, who played his college ball at St. John's, N. Y., said "I'm certainly happy about coming to San Diego."

"From the first time I had the opportunity to talk to (franchise owner Robert) Mr. Breitbard, that's all I've been thinking about."

Breitbard was confident about his selection, saying "Jack will bring to us enthusiasm and hustle that have been the trademark of his teams in pro basketball."

McMahon's work was also praised by G. Thomas Grace, executive vice-president of the Royals. "Jack had the best won-lost record of any guy in the league, with the exception of Red Auerbach (of Boston)," Grace said, adding he felt McMahon could handle the double assignment.

Most of the Royals' players were not available for comment but Connie Dierking, one of last season's starters, said, "He was a great coach . . . I think his record will bear him out. I think the Royals will sorely miss him."

Celtics Keep Russell

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell was rehired Wednesday as player-coach of the NBA Boston Celtics for another year.

Swim Team Issues Call For Members

The Circleville Swim team issued a call for members.

"We need members in almost all age groups, but particularly in the groups 13 through 17," swim coach Jim Shea announced.

The Circleville Swim Team is a member of the Central Ohio Swim League. Other teams in league are: Mt. Vernon, Upper Arlington, Hilltop, Delaware, Grove City and Columbus Olympic.

The season starts in mid June. The local team will compete in six league meets, the championship meet and four to six invitational meets during the summer.

Persons interested in joining the team and starting Saturday workouts at the Chillicothe YMCA should contact Shea by phoning 474-6242 after 6 p. m. or 474-3650 during the day.

Tribe Gains 2-1 Victory Over Angels

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rick Reichardt, the California Angels' $200,000 bonus outfielder cracked a 420-foot home run against a desert windstorm before the Cleveland Indians' pitchers knuckled down to give the Tribe a 2-1 victory Wednesday.

Reichardt's homer in the second inning off starter Gary Bell gave the Angels a 1-0 lead. But Bell allowed only three more hits in six innings.

Bell was followed by Vicente Romo and Dick Radatz. Neither gave up a hit.

The Indians scored two unearned runs in the fifth inning off Marcelino Lopez, the California starter. Chico Salmon walked, then Lopez tried to pick him off. But first baseman Len Gabrielson threw wildly in the rundown and Salmon reached third.

Azcue moved to third on Bell's sacrifice and scored when shortstop Jackie Hernandez booted Gus Gil's grounder.

Earl Monroe Scores Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Monroe, who led Winston-Salem State to a 31-1 season record and the NCAA small college basketball championship, scored a record 1,329 points in the 32 games, final statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed Wednesday.

The Little All-America averaged 41.5 points in beating out Willie Scott of Alabama State who averaged 35.9. Wayne Proffitt of Lynchburg finished third with a 33.9 average.

Miller and Tom Fletcher, the Tiger heavyweight wrestler, both received trophies for being named to the All-District wrestling team.

Plaques were presented to each of the seniors by the Booster Club. A practice inaugurated several years ago by the Ladies Auxiliary of the booster club before the two combined, it has proven popular.

AN ACTION photograph is taken of the senior athlete. It is enlarged and mounted on a stiff backing.

Members of the various athletic squads were introduced by their respective coaches: Brent Bell, freshman wrestling; Kent Carpenter, varsity wrestling; Dan Fouts, junior high basketball; Terry Ater, freshman basketball; Kelly Boyer, reserve basketball; Chuck Hill, varsity basketball.

Before introducing his team, Coach Hill stated that basketball was at a low point in Circleville when he came here last year. He noted this year's squad showed a lot of improvement, particularly during the tournament.

He issued a challenge to the younger players to set their sights on winning the state championship. "There's plenty of room at the top for another good team," he said.

Otterbein Coach Tong said by participating in athletics a youth learned to work, learned to play and made unforgettable associations.

He pointed out that to achieve success in athletics, it is also necessary to achieve success in the classroom. But he emphasized that coaches needed to create fun in basketball — that sports could not be all work.

HE STATED that the "fun" in participating was one of the key recruiting points in small college athletics.

The Invocation and the Benediction were voiced by the Rev. Fr. William Metzger. Ed Johnson, sportscaster for the local radio station, served as master of ceremonies.

The cheerleaders were introduced by Janie Wiggins, who has been named captain of next year's cheerleading squad.

Members of the Booster Club who served on the committee for the carryin style banquet were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, Mrs. Lucy Stonerock, Mrs. Tillie Melson, Speeder Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Liston.

Logan Elm '9' Opens Baseball Season Today

Logan Elm High School's baseball squad becomes the first of the local spring sports team to begin the season today when the Braves host Amanda.

LE coach Vic Pontius has worked out a 12 game schedule for his varsity diamond team, and is still seeking at least one more game.

With a host of experience returning, Pontius expects the Braves to fare better this year than last, when they lost about as many games as they won.

In the veteran SVC baseball coach's opinion, defending champion Unioto and runnerup Westfall are the teams that could win it all in the conference.

"WESTFALL has that fine crop of sophomores that played together all last summer," Pontius explains. "And Unioto, although they lost their good pitcher, has some good talent coming back."

Senior lettermen returning at Logan Elm include Russ Mermin, first base and pitcher; Danny Dahl, outfielder, and Tom Smith, shortstop and utility infielder. All were starters last season.

Other senior candidates who have seen action on the diamond squad are Alan Gabriel, Greg Fraunfelder and Bob Collins, all outfielders. Jim Moorehead played some as a freshman and dropped out of the sport for two years to concentrate on track. This year he is again going to compete in both sports and should add depth to the team.

A pair of newcomers who are seniors include Larry Dumm and Gregg Dunkle.

Heading the list of juniors back this season are Dale Jenne, a righthanded pitcher and shortstop, and Mike Helwagen, veteran catcher.

Jenne and Helwagen have been named the starting battery in tonight's game by Pontius.

LARRY STANT at second base is the other junior candidate for the team. Dave Reichelderfer, a sophomore, will roam the outfield and sub at catcher for the Braves.

The lone freshman tabbed with a possible starting role is Danny Fausnaugh, the Braves fine young southpaw athlete.

Fausnaugh will see some duty on the mound for the Braves and will also get a chance to display his ability in the outfield. The Braves had a turnout of about 40 youngsters for the squad this year. There are about 30 still playing on the freshman and the reserve squads.

Mike Cockran is the reserve coach and he is seeking games for his charges.

Several Pickaway County horsemen compete at Northfield.

Cassius Clay Gets 2 Blows From Draft

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay came to his former home town and suffered two setbacks in his fight to stay out of the Army.

The champ was denied a court order to prevent his induction. And, a draft board in Houston, Texas, the town Clay now calls home, sent him word to appear April 28 for induction.

The aftermath of Wednesday's action on the two fronts apparently will be more legal maneuvering.

Attorney Hayden C. Covington of New York said he would appeal the federal court decision to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati and to the Supreme Court. He also indicated he might start legal action in Houston before the induction date.

Clay, meanwhile, conferred for an hour Wednesday with Dr. Martin Luther King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Neither would say what they talked about but said they had some problems in common.

Clay then went to a meeting Wednesday night of advocates for an open housing law that is pending in Louisville.

Clay was due to be inducted April 11. He asked that his case be transferred to Texas. A spokesman for the Houston draft board said the induction notice was mailed Wednesday, shortly after the change of board request was received from Louisville.

"There was an April 28 call already set up before we received approval of his request to be in our jurisdiction," said a spokesman for the Houston board. "There are several others included in the call. He received no special privileges nor penalties."

Clay petitioned U.S. District Court to create a panel of three judges to rule on his suit to suspend the draft of all Kentucky Negroes while the court decided if Clay should be inducted. Clay argued there was racial imbalance on the draft board at Louisville.

Judge James F. Gordon refused to grant an order of this kind and said Clay didn't have the right to take the case to court until he had gone through the draft procedure. The judge said he was not ruling on the merits of the case.

Red Sox Defeat St. Louis, 10-9

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski often had that left out feeling when left-handers pitched against the Red Sox, but this spring he is showing signs of becoming the big hit of the Boston Baseball Party.

The left-handed hitter smacked two home runs off south paw Alvi Jackson Wednesday as the Red Sox nipped St. Louis 10-9.

His first homer came with a man on in the third inning, and his second came with two aboard in the fifth. He also drove in a run with a bases-loaded walk and made the game-ending out by spearing Jim Williams' fly to deep left field.

Earlier this spring, first-year Manager Dick Williams said Yastrzemski, who hit .278 but only .198 against southpaws in 1966, definitely would not be platooned this season.

In other exhibition games Wednesday, Joe Morgan's home run lifted Houston over Atlanta 3-2; Donn Clendenon smacked two homers as Pittsburgh beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 in 10; Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer of the spring helped Minnesota past Washington 5-0.

The New York Mets beat Cincinnati 5-3; Cleveland nipped California 2-1; Detroit rocked Philadelphia 6-2; Los Angeles edged Kansas City 3-2 and San Francisco ad the Chicago Cubs were rained out.

Joe Foy's three-run double in Boston's five-run sixth provided the winning runs. Mike Shannon drove in four runs with two homers and a pair of singles and Orlando Cepeda homered for St. Louis.

In the Houston game, Larry Dierker retired 13 straight while working seven innings for the Astros, while Tony Cloninger set down 12 straight in a seven-inning stint for Atlanta.

Pittsburgh got three runs from Clendenon's homers but heeded three straight singles for a run in the 10th to win it. The Pirates added another extra inning run with a sacrifice fly. Chicago's Ken Berry hit a grand slam off Bob Veale in the third.

Dave Boswell, Jim Perry and Al Worthington of the Twins combined to shut out Washington.

The Mets got seven hits, including Ron Swoboda's triple, in scoring all in the fifth inning. The outburst was at the expense of Cincinnati's Mel Queen, an outfielder trying to make the grade as a pitcher.

Cleveland got two unearned runs in the fifth to overcome California's 1-0 lead fashioned on Rick Reichardt's second-inning homer, and pitchers Gary Bell, Vicete Romo and Dick Radatz made them stand up.

Doubles by George Koric and Dick McAuliffe and three singles enabled Detroit to break a 1-1 tie with three runs in the eighth against Philadelphia.

Los Angeles got its three runs in the first inning, two of them on Bob Bailey's homer, in beating Kansas City. The Dodgers, however, lost center fielder Willie Davis for seven to 10 days. Davis sprained his left ankle while attempting to steal second.

Cincy Royals Are Getting New Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals can expect to have a new coach "within a week to ten days," General Manager Pepper Wilson said after the announcement that Jack McMahon has accepted another job.

McMahon, who had led the Royals since 1963, Wednesday was named coach and general manager of the new National Basketball Association team at San Diego.

There had been talk that McMahon's days at Cincinnati were numbered ever since the Royals went on a losing streak last season. The team finished with a 39-42 record for third place in the NBA's Eastern Division. McMahon's record in the NBA is 199-160.

"I think Jack did a very good job for us," Wilson said Wednesday night when reached by telephone at Denver. "San Diego asked for permission to talk to him about that job a month ago, and we gave them permission. His interest in the job was an open secret."

"Jack was sensible enough to know that a change was in the picture."

As far as successors are concerned, Wilson said "there are quite a few fellows who have expressed an interest in the job" but they have other commitments. He declined to mention any names or even comment on whether Frank Ramsey, former University of Kentucky and Boston Celtics star, is one of the leading candidates.

Other names mentioned in connection with the job are former coaches Paul Seymour and Harry Gallatin, and Arlen Bockhorn, a former Royals player.

McMahon, 38, who played his college ball at St. John's, N. Y., said "I'm certainly happy about coming to San Diego."

"From the first time I had the opportunity to talk to (franchise owner Robert) Mr. Breitbard, that's all I've been thinking about."

Breitbard was confident about his selection, saying "Jack will bring to us enthusiasm and hustle that have been the trademark of his teams in pro basketball."

McMahon's work was also praised by G. Thomas Grace, executive vice-president of the Royals. "Jack had the best won-lost record of any guy in the league, with the exception of Red Auerbach (of Boston)," Grace said, adding he felt McMahon could handle the double assignment.

Most of the Royals' players were not available for comment but Connie Dierking, one of last season's starters, said, "He was a great coach . . . I think his record will bear him out. I think the Royals will sorely miss him."

Celtics Keep Russell

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell was rehired Wednesday as player-coach of the NBA Boston Celtics for another year.

Swim Team Issues Call For Members

The Circleville Swim team issued a call for members.

"We need members in almost all age groups, but particularly in the groups 13 through 17," swim coach Jim Shea announced.

The Circleville Swim Team is a member of the Central Ohio Swim League. Other teams in league are: Mt. Vernon, Upper Arlington, Hilltop, Delaware, Grove City and Columbus Olympic.

The season starts in mid June. The local team will compete in six league meets, the championship meet and four to six invitational meets during the summer.

Persons interested in joining the team and starting Saturday workouts at the Chillicothe YMCA should contact Shea by phoning 474-6242 after 6 p. m. or 474-3650 during the day.

Tribe Gains 2-1 Victory Over Angels

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rick Reichardt, the California Angels' $200,000 bonus outfielder cracked a 420-foot home run against a desert windstorm before the Cleveland Indians' pitchers knuckled down to give the Tribe a 2-1 victory Wednesday.

Reichardt's homer in the second inning off starter Gary Bell gave the Angels a 1-0 lead. But Bell allowed only three more hits in six innings.

Bell was followed by Vicete Romo and Dick Radatz. Neither gave up a hit.

The Indians scored two unearned runs in the fifth inning off Marcelino Lopez, the California starter. Chico Salmon walked, then Lopez tried to pick him off. But first baseman Len Gabrielson threw wildly in the rundown and Salmon reached third.

Azcue moved to third on Bell's sacrifice and scored when shortstop Jackie Hernandez booted Gus Gil's grounder.

Earl Monroe Scores Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Monroe, who led Winston-Salem State to a 31-1 season record and the NCAA small college basketball championship, scored a record 1,329 points in the 32 games, final statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed Wednesday.

The Little All-America averaged 41.5 points in beating out Willie Scott of Alabama State who averaged 35.9. Wayne Profit of Lynchburg finished third with a 33.0 average.

Miller and Tom Fletcher, the Tiger heavyweight wrestler, both received trophies for being named to the All-District wrestling team.

Plaques were presented to each of the seniors by the Booster Club. A practice inaugurated several years ago by the Ladies Auxiliary of the booster club before the two combined, it has proven popular.

AN ACTION photograph is taken of the senior athlete. It is enlarged and mounted on a stiff backing.

Members of the various athletic squads were introduced by their respective coaches: Brent Bell, freshman wrestling; Kent Carpenter, varsity wrestling; Dan Fouts, junior high basketball; Terry Ater, freshman basketball; Kelly Boyer, reserve basketball; Chuck Hill, varsity basketball.

Before introducing his team, Coach Hill stated that basketball was at a low point in Circleville when he came here last year. He noted this year's squad showed a lot of improvement, particularly during the tournament.

He issued a challenge to the younger players to set their sights on winning the state championship. "There's plenty of room at the top for another good team," he said.

Otterbein Coach Tong said by participating in athletics a youth learned to work, learned to play and made unforgettable associations.

He pointed out that to achieve success in athletics, it is also necessary to achieve success in the classroom. But he emphasized that coaches needed to create fun in basketball — that sports could not be all work.

HE STATED that the "fun" in participating was one of the key recruiting points in small college athletics.

The Invocation and the Benediction were voiced by the Rev. Fr. William Metzger. Ed Johnson, sportscaster for the local radio station, served as master of ceremonies.

The cheerleaders were introduced by Janie Wiggins, who has been named captain of next year's cheerleading squad.

Members of the Booster Club who served on the committee for the carry-in style banquet were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Lucy Stonerock, Mrs. Tillie McLean, Speeder Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Liston.

Logan Elm '9' Opens Baseball Season Today

Logan Elm High School's baseball squad becomes the first of the local spring sports team to begin the season today when the Braves host Amanda.

LE coach Vic Pontius has worked out a 12 game schedule for his varsity diamond team, and is still seeking at least one more game.

With a host of experience returning, Pontius expects the Braves to fare better this year than last, when they lost about as many games as they won.

In the veteran SVC baseball coach's opinion, defending champion Unioto and runnerup Westfall are the teams that could win it all in the conference.

"WESTFALL has that fine crop of sophomores that played together all last summer," Pontius explains. "And Unioto, although they lost their good pitcher, has some good talent coming back."

Senior lettermen returning at Logan Elm include Russ Merrin, first base and pitcher; Danny Dahl, outfielder, and Tom Smith, shortstop and utility infielder. All were starters last season.

AUCTION

205 ACRE MADISON COUNTY FARM

Saturday April 1, 1967

Sells at 2:00 P.M.

Located 4 miles west of London on the Old Springfield Rd. across from the Old Madison County Experiment Farm.

An excellent grain farm, exceptionally well located with approximately 200 acres tillable. This 205 acres has no buildings and no cross fences, which makes it an ideal farm for anyone looking for extra crop land or an investment. Located in an area where farm land will always be in demand and with no buildings to pay taxes on and no upkeep, it is attractive for future appreciation.

INSPECTION: Permitted anytime. This farm is being sold to dissolve a mother and son operation.

TERMS: $5,000.00 cash at time of sale, balance on delivery of deed within 30 days.

Chicago Bulls' Red Kerr Is NBA Coach of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — John (Red) Kerr of the Chicago Bulls was named the Coach of the Year in the National Basketball Association today.

Kerr led the Bulls into the Western Division playoffs in their first NBA season. They lost to St. Louis in the semifinals.

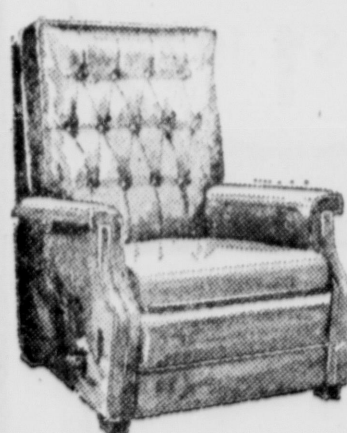

Kerr, a former star at Illinois set an NBA record by playing in 917 consecutive games with the Syracuse Nationals, Philadelphia 76ers and Baltimore Bullets before turning to coaching.

Kerr won Coach of the Year honors with 17 votes in the balloting of a 30-man committee of sports writers, three from each NBA city.

Alex Hanum of the Philadelphia 76ers, Eastern Division champs, was second in the voting with 11. Bill Sharman of the San Francisco Warriors, the Western Division champs, was third with two. No other coach received a vote.

Fewest putts during a 1966 PGA golf tournament were the 102 taken by Bert Yancey for the 72-hole Portland, Ore., Open.

Crop Loan Deadline Is Friday

Producers who want loans on 1966 crops of wheat, barley, oats and rye should request them at the ASCS county office by Mar. 31, according to Paul T. Moore, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Final dates for requesting price-support loans are approximately 30 days prior to the particular loan maturity date, Moore said. The date for filing notice of the producer's intention to sell his eligible crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation is in or before the applicable loan maturity date.

Maturity date for the different crops grown locally is April 30 and July 31 for corn and soybeans.

The chairman encouraged farmers to keep an eye on the market so that they will be in position to redeem their crops when prices are most favorable and thus get the best possible returns from crops under price-support loans.

Crops may be redeemed from loan at any time prior to maturity by paying off the loan plus interest, Moore explained.

chael Myerson on income tax charges in New York City did its deliberating during the massive power failure.

The Coral Gables, Fla., man contends in an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court that his constitutional right to a fair trial suffered because "the circumstances were so inherently anxiety-provoking and diverting."

Things weren't really as black as painted by Myerson, Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall contends. The jurors, he noted in his brief, must have had an auxiliary source of light because they "wrote three notes to the court after the blackout began."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first piece of U.S. space hardware to touch Venus may be a 100-pound capsule sent hurtling against the planet's surface in 1972.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered a study of the proposal Wednesday.

If the plan is approved, a capsule would be cut loose from a Mariner-class spacecraft as it passed Venus. The capsule would enter the planet's atmosphere and transmit descriptions of the conditions encountered as it sped to its destruction.

NASA's timetable for exploring the planets calls for a Mariner to be launched in June on a flight that will take it past Venus, and for a fly-by of Mars—earth's closest neighbor in the solar system—in 1969. In neither instance would the craft enter the atmosphere of the planet being observed.

A capsule will dive into Mars' atmosphere in 1971.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will be leadoff witness Monday as a House Labor subcommittee opens hearings on a bill that would remove limitations on construction site picketing. Since 1937, "common situs" picketing has been outlawed by the Taft-Hartley Act.

A "cultural gap between the managers of our corporate society and the managers of the state and local governments" accounts for the unsophisticated management techniques employed in much government decision-making, one of the federal government's management experts says.

Arthur W. Barber, a deputy secretary of defense, spoke Wednesday at a congressional hearing on a bill to make $125 million available to aid in applying systems analysis techniques to social problems.

Educators Urged To Show Adults Art of Living

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Roman Catholic educators preoccupied with the young, were urged Wednesday to cast some of their light into the atmosphere of modern adults.

In a bafflingly dehumanizing age, people need "an opportunity to learn to live," said Jane Wolford, executive director of the Institute for Continuing Education, a pioneering project set up by the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit.

"Man must be awakened to his personhood," Mrs. Wolford said. She said this work among persons beyond ordinary school age should rate a "high priority" for Catholicism's vast educational enterprise.

At the 64th annual convention of the National Catholic Education Association, she proposed that the association's Commission on Adults be made a full-fledged department to guide the undertaking on a nationwide basis.

Declaring that past "exclusive emphasis on children and youth" had "created an education-island where the adult has the status of beachcomber," she said it was up to religious educators to broaden their work.

"Man is working overtime at the deadly art of nonliving," she said.

Mrs. Wolford proposed organization of church adult education on a national basis, coordinating programs at a diocesan level in cooperation with Catholic and non-Catholic institutions.

Since most adult education available today through industry, government and other agencies generally deals with occupational and vocational matters, she suggested that church programs concentrate on social and personal issues.

Movie Is Slated At Nicholas Drive

The movie to be shown Saturday, at Nicholas Drive School is "Hoppity Goes To Town."

An animated full length cartoon feature produced by the creators of "Gulliver's Travels," it tells the story of Hoppity the grasshopper.

The musical numbers used in the film were composed by Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser. The movie is recommended by Parent's Magazine and has won the Family Medal Award.

There will be two showings, at 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. Refreshments will be sold during the intermissions and the school doors will be open at 12:45 p. m.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—A man serving three years in prison says his chances of securing justice went to eclipse during the "great Northeast blackout" of Nov. 9, 1965.

Crop Loan Deadline Is Friday

Producers who want loans on 1966 crops of wheat, barley, oats and rye should request them at the ASCE county office by Mar. 31, according to Paul T. Moore, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Final dates for requesting price-support loans are approximately 30 days prior to the particular loan maturity date, Moore said. The date for filing notice of the producer's intention to sell his eligible crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation is in or before the applicable loan maturity date.

Maturity date for the different crops grown locally is April 30 and July 31 for corn and soybeans.

The chairman encouraged farmers to keep an eye on the market so that they will be in position to redeem their crops when prices are most favorable and thus get the best possible returns from crops under price-support loans.

Crops may be redeemed from loan at any time prior to maturity by paying off the loan plus interest, Moore explained.

Michael Myerson on income tax charges in New York City did its deliberating during the massive power failure.

The Coral Gables, Fla., man contends in an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court that his constitutional right to a fair trial suffered because "the circumstances were so inherently anxiety-provoking and diverting."

Things weren't really as black as painted by Myerson, Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall contends. The jurors, he noted in his brief, must have had an auxiliary source of light because they "wrote three notes to the court after the blackout began."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first piece of U.S. space hardware to touch Venus may be a 100-pound capsule sent hurtling against the planet's surface in 1972.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered a study of the proposal Wednesday.

If the plan is approved, a capsule would be cut loose from a Mariner-class spacecraft as it passed Venus. The capsule would enter the planet's atmosphere and transmit descriptions of the conditions encountered as it sped to its destruction.

NASA's timetable for exploring the planets calls for a Mariner to be launched in June on a flight that will take it past Venus, and for a fly-by of Mars—earth's closest neighbor in the solar system—in 1969. In neither instance would the craft enter the atmosphere of the planet being observed.

A capsule will dive into Mars' atmosphere in 1971.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz will be leadoff witness Monday as a House Labor subcommittee opens hearings on a bill that would remove limitations on construction site picketing. Since 1957, "common situs" picketing has been outlawed by the Taft-Hartley Act.

A "cultural gap between the managers of our corporate society and the managers of the state and local governments" accounts for the unsophisticated management techniques employed in much government decision-making, one of the federal government's management experts says.

Arthur W. Barber, a deputy secretary of defense, spoke Wednesday at a congressional hearing on a bill to make $125 million available to aid in applying systems analysis techniques to social problems.

Educators Urged To Show Adults Art of Living

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Roman Catholic educators preoccupied with the young, were urged Wednesday to cast some of their light into the atmosphere of modern adults.

In a bafflingly dehumanizing age, people need "an opportunity to learn to live," said Jane Wolford, executive director of the Institute for Continuing Education, a pioneering project set up by the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit.

"Man must be awakened to his personhood," Mrs. Wolford said. She said this work among persons beyond ordinary school age should rate a "high priority" for Catholicism's vast educational enterprise.

At the 64th annual convention of the National Catholic Education Association, she proposed that the association's Commission on Adults be made a full-fledged department to guide the undertaking on a nationwide basis.

Declaring that past "exclusive emphasis on children and youth" had "created an education-island where the adult has the status of beachcomber," she said it was up to religious educators to broaden their work.

"Man is working overtime at the deadly art of nonliving," she said.

Mrs. Wolford proposed organization of church adult education on a national basis, coordinating programs at a diocesan level in cooperation with Catholic and non-Catholic institutions.

Since most adult education available today through industry, government and other agencies generally deals with occupational and vocational matters, she suggested that church programs concentrate on social and personal issues.

Movie Is Slated
At Nicholas Drive

The movie to be shown Saturday, at Nicholas Drive School is "Hoppy Goes To Town."

An animated full length cartoon feature produced by the creators of "Gulliver's Travels," it tells the story of Hoppy the grasshopper.

The musical numbers used in the film were composed by Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser. The movie is recommended by Parent's Magazine and has won the Family Medal Award.

There will be two showings, at 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. Refreshments will be sold during the intermissions and the school doors will be open at 12:45 p. m.
